—THREE RAIN MARKS SET—

Floods Follow September Rain

Lowland flooding in the Ulysses-Surprise, Beemer and Hardy areas Thursday followed downpours ranging up to four and five inches in those parts of the state.

The rains also resulted in new record precipitation marks for Lincoln, Omaha and Grand Island.

Lincoln's total now stands at 42.14 inches, compared to the previous record of 41.22 inches for the entire year in 1902. The Capital City also has a new September record with precipitation for the month of September, 1965, standing at 9.69 inches, 7.92 inches above normal. The old record was 8.06 inches in 1906.

At Ulysses the Blue River reached flood stage Thursday before beginning to drop. The river closed one secondary road near the Butler County community. Light crop damage was expected to late crops in low lying fields

Some Crop Damage

Creeks in the David City area, where 3.50 inches of rain fell, were running at bank level Thursday.

The Republican River near Hardy, located on the Nebraska-Kansas border in south central Nebraska, spilled into lowlands after reaching flood stage. Little damage was reported, however.

Northeast Nebraska apparently escaped immediate flooding despite fears some might develop.

More than 4.50 inches of rain fell during the 30-hour period at Beemer. Plum Creek was flooding pastures there but no other overflow was reported. In the Logan Creek area northeast of Norfolk, rainfall ranged up to 3.75 inches at Wakefield.

The Norfolk weather bureau, which had alerted those who live along small streams to possible flooding, said Thursday the danger had passed.

Lincoln Creek west of Seward was slightly out of its banks Thursday.

On the Little Blue River there was light flooding in the Deweese area.

While heavy flooding was averted, the new drenching had its dismal side for Nebraska farmers.

"Rain is the last thing we need right now, said Kenneth Logan of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics in Lincoln.

"What we need now is some warm, dry weather," he said. "Farmers are falling behind in getting their wheat planted and harvesting their alfalfa, and some of the sorghum fields are ready to harvest. The rain is putting us behind that much longer.

The latest rainfall brought September records to Omaha with a total of 13 75 inches for the month, and to Grand Island where 9.69 inches have fallen.

Indonesia Generals' Try To Boot Sukarno Fails

Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia (AP) —Indonesia's government radio announced Friday that a number of generals had been arrested to avert an attempt to overthrow President Sukarno

The broadcast said Sukarno was safe and a revolutionary council had been set up "that will follow the already established policy of the government."

Observers speculated that the result would be increased Communist influence on the domestic policy of the Indonesian government

For years Sukarno has played off the country's powerful Communist Party against its anti-Communist military leaders, using each to check the other and acting as the balance and arbiter between them

More Responsive

In recent months, however, Sukarno and his government have become more and more responsive to Communist demands at home and have aligned themselves completely with Communist China and its Asian Communist allies in opposition to the United States.

One of the demands Sukarno has not acceded to is for a break in diplomatic relations with the United States.

Radio Jakarta said the generals were members of a subversive "council of generals" sponsored by the U S Central Intelligence Agency, "which has been very active lately, especially after President Sukarno was seriously ill in the first week of August this year." The broadcast continued:

"Their hope that President Sukarno would die of his illness did not materialize. Therefore, in order to attain its goal, the council of generals had planned to conduct a power exhibition on armed forces day, Oct. 5 this year, by sending to Jakarta troops from east, central and west Java"

Countered

The broadcast said that to prevent this "counterrevolutionary coup," Lt. Col. Untung, commandant of a battalion of the presidential bodyguard, launched the 30th of September operation against the generals Thursday. It said the operation "has proved a success."

The Indonesian broadcast was monitored in Washington and State Department Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said the department was watching the situation closely.

Communications with Indonesia were cut. A Japanese overseas telephone operator got through to Bandung, 75 miles southeast of Jakarta, but was told the lines to the capital "were out of order." Shortly after the Japanese operators were unable to raise Bandung again.

Riot Police Charge Dairy Picket Line

Pittsburgh (UPI) — A phalanx of riot-squad policemen charged a picket line of 400 hymn-singing dairy farmers and their wives in front of a dairy plant Thursday and arrested 60 of them.

Three policemen sustained minor injuries. None of the farmers and farmers' wives, who demonstrated for higher prices for the raw milk they sell to dairies, was injured.

It took nine police vans to haul away those arrested, 47 farmers and 13 wives.

The picketing, which had been threatened for weeks, was the farmers' opening shot in what was planned as a widespread "milk strike" against Pennsylvania dairies.

Catholic Landmarks Being Razed

Workmen are demolishing this old church building at 18th and J, which for half a century served as a German language Catholic parish church, and they have already razed the small house next to it which served for 30 years as headquarters office for the Catholic Diocese of Lincoln. German was spoken in the church until the 1930s, serving a German-speaking population in that part of Lincoln; when the parish was disbanded the house, which had been the rectory, became the Chancery, in which the late Bishop Louis B. Kucera had his office. The church building was later used as the Catholic Youth Organization hall and as a gymnasium for the old Cathedral High School. Chancery officials say they have no plans for the land being cleared by the demolition. (Star Photo.)

LBJ To Sign Immigration Bill At Statue Of Liberty

Washington (AP) — The Statue of Liberty in New York harbor, long a beacon of refuge for immigrants, was chosen by President Johnson Thursday as the stage for a ceremonial signing of the new immigration bill.

The White House announced Johnson will fly to the feet of the "mother of exiles" Sunday afternoon and place his signature on the bill that received final congressional approval Thursday.

The outdoor ceremony will be carried out at a desk to be set up at the base of the huge statue on Liberty Island, formerly Bedloe's Island. The President will face Ellis Island, through which poured the immigrant floods from Europe in past years.

Johnson, who will remain in New York overnight to meet Pope Paul VI Monday, will be the first president to visit the statue since Franklin D Roosevelt went there Oct. 28, 1936, to mark the 50th anniversary of its dedication

The only other president to visit the statue was Grover Cleveland, who dedicated the monument in 1886. The 151-foot high statue, formally named "Liberty Enlightening the World," was given to the United States by France as a symbol of friendship.

Sponsors of the bill estimate it will open the U.S. immigration gates to 60,000 more aliens a year, to a total of about 355,000

The House voted 320 to 69 to accept the compromise bill imposing an annual limit on Western Hemisphere immigrants for the first time but ending the national origins quota system for other nations. The Senate followed by giving voice vote clearance to the measure.

The Johnson administration opposed the idea of putting a ceiling on immigration from Canada, Mexico and other Western Hemisphere nations, but abandoned the fight in the end.

The ceiling voted by the Senate and accepted after a compromise session by the House would be 120,000 a year starting July 1, 1968. Meantime, the bill provides for a 15-member commission to study population and immigration trends in this hemisphere and submit recommendations before the effective date.

The measure carries out Johnson's request for abolition of the 41-year-old quota system which he said is not compatible with the American tradition

In place of the quota system, the bill sets an over-all ceiling of 170.000 immigrants a year from all nations outside the Western Hemisphere. The annual quotas under present law adds up to 158.561, with 70% of the total allotted to Britain, Ireland and Germany.

Under the new plan, no more than 20,000 immigrants may be admitted annually from any one country outside the Western Hemisphere. Specifically excluded from the numerical limits are husbands, wives, minor children and parents of U.S. citizens.

Preference is to be given to those with close family ties to U.S. citizens or with skills needed in this country. The emphasis is on the reunion of families.

The bill also wipes out the last vestige of discrimination against Asians by repealing a provision under which an immigrant of Asian stock is charged to the country of his ancestry rather than his place of birth.

MODERNISTIC CHURCH . . . indicative of Norfolk boom.

Norfolk Building Booming

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Norfolk — Building is booming, headed for a second consecutive record year in Norfolk.

And the best thing about it is that big projects aren't the main support.

"Construction this year seems to be all smaller things," noted Chamber of Commerce Manager Bob Shively "But we're still within a half million of last year."

Two Big Projects

The 1964 record showed $5 3 million in new construction, double the previous year. But two projects — the Missionary Benedictine Sisters convent and Lutheran Community Hospital — made up for better than a million and a half each.

This year the largest single expenditures are going for a nursing home, Sacred Heart Catholic Church, St. John's Lutheran Church, a country club, office building and Holiday Inn.

But smaller projects—notably, new homes — are taking up the slack. Home building is already up to 98 for the year, an increase of nearly 70% of 1964

Shively explained as its cause the healthy business climate and steady, diversified growth of industry.

Five new industries, employing 500 people, have located in Norfolk since 1958. Others have been expanding.

One of the latest — Vulcraft —has doubled its work force to top 150 since opening a year ago.

Local businesses are expanding and modernizing to meet the new demands. So the current housing boom came as no big surprise. And everyone is elated with it.

Bids are expected to be let later this fall for the proposed $1.2-million high school plant.

If that goes as scheduled, building permits will easily shoot past last year's record pace before the books close on 1965

Coleman Not Convicted; Verdict Is Denounced

. . . CALLED 'APPALLING,' 'TRAVESTY OF JUSTICE'

Hayneville, Ala. (UPI) — An all-white jury acquitted a special deputy sheriff of a civil rights slaying Thursday, but Alabama's outraged attorney general said he isn't through with the case yet.

Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers said the acquittal of 52-year-old Tom Coleman represented the "democratic process going down the drain of irrationality, bigotry and improper enforcement of the law."

TOM COLEMAN

Shotgun

Coleman was charged with first-degree manslaughter in the Aug. 20 shotgun slaying of Jonathan Daniels, 26, a white Episcopal seminary student from Keene, N H.

The American Civil Liberties Union in Washington asked Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black to halt all court proceedings in Lowndes County, where Coleman was tried, pending a hearing on ACLU charges that Negroes and women are excluded from the county's juries.

Integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr said the verdict made it "obviously clear that federal antilynch legislation must be passed."

Price You Pay

U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach commented in Houston that such verdicts "are the price you have to pay for the jury system."

Coleman, a state highway department engineer who helped out with police matters, still must stand trial on assault charges for the wounding of Daniels' friend, the Rev. Richard Morrisroe of Chicago, a Roman Catholic priest who was cut down by gunfire in the same incident.

In Chicago, Fr. Morrisroe said the acquittal does not "square with the facts of the case." The priest, still hospitalized in serious condition, said in a statement that "he himself is an important witness to the event but does not wish to speak publicly at this time. He hopes that he will be able to give his testimony in a court of law."

An aide of Flowers said the attorney general was "researching" the case to determine whether any further "legal routes are available. The attorney general is not through with this case yet."

Coleman could have been sentenced to up to 10 years in prison in the Daniels case. He could draw a year's term for the assault on Morrisroe.

Appalling

Flowers said that "what happened this week in Hayneville does not do justice to Alabama. What has happened is appalling.

"Now those who feel they have a license to kill, destroy and cripple have been issued that license. It is our duty to do what is necessary to retrieve it.

"I firmly believe that the great majority of Alabamans are outraged by this calloused disregard for the taking of a human life in the enforcement of the law."

Daniels and Fr. Morrisroe were shot outside a Hayneville grocery store where they had gone in the company of Negroes.

The jury deliberated 1 hour and 43 minutes before acquitting Coleman—a verdict that marked another in a long series of failures by prosecutors in the Deep South to win convictions in civil rights slaying cases.

Wife Happy

Coleman's wife broke into tears when the verdict was announced. "I knew it all the time," she said, tears running down her cheeks.

"I'm happy," Coleman said, chewing on a wad of gum.

The Rev. John Morris of Atlanta, chairman of the Episcopal Society for Cultural and Racial Unity, which sent Daniels to Alabama to do civil rights work, left the courtroom ashen-faced.

"While justice is winked at once more in Alabama," said the Rev. Mr. Morris, "President Johnson announces plans for a federally sponsored opera company. Such cultural advantages will have little future in a country where the law of the jungle appears increasingly to provide the only alternative for persons unable to expect justice from the courts."

Travesty Of Justice

In Daniels' hometown of Keene, the verdict was received with dismay and a prominent clergyman called on Johnson to take steps to prevent another such "travesty of American justice."

New Hampshire Gov. John W. King likewise said he looked on the verdict as a "travesty of justice."

Ky To Ask For More U.S. Troops

Saigon (UPI) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky Thursday said he will ask the United States for more combat troops to fight the communists in South Viet Nam. American military manpower in South Viet Nam already totals more than 128,000, with another 11,000 due to arrive shortly.

Ky disclosed his planned appeal, as well as his intention to shake up his cabinet, while American planes and ground troops lashed out at the Reds in both North and South Viet Nam.

U.S. Marines launched a new offensive near the big coastal port city of Qui Nhon while other Marine units fanned out from the Da Nang area in a series of smaller attacks. The leathernecks used portable smoke generators in the Da Nang operations to help find Viet Cong tunnel openings.

First Such

It was the first use of such tactical weapons in Viet Nam. A spokesman said the smoke caused no ill effects but did effectively spot tunnel entrances and exits.

Ky did not tell a "get acquainted" breakfast with Vietnamese newsmen and student leaders how many more American troops he would ask for.

Ky also told his guests he hoped to set aside some areas as relaxation centers for foreign troops and confine prostitution to these districts. Vietnamese have complained about the encroachment of bars and loose-living bar girls into formerly respectable neighborhoods.

Ky's guests said he also would announce the creation of a new ministry of peace and war, which would combine military aims with some of the constructive programs designed to win popular loyalty Maj Gen. Nguyen Huu Co is expected to be named to the new post.

Five Shot

The five executed convicts were not known to be members of the Communist Viet Cong and their crimes were not connected to the war, officials said.

Earlier, the communists shot three captured American soldiers in retaliation for the executions of Viet Cong terrorists by the South Vietnamese government.

—THREE RAIN MARKS SET—

Floods Follow September Rain

Lowland flooding in the Ulysses-Surprise, Beemer and Hardy areas Thursday followed downpours ranging up to four and five inches in those parts of the state.

The rains also resulted in new record precipitation marks for Lincoln, Omaha and Grand Island.

Lincoln's total now stands at 42.14 inches, compared to the previous record of 41.22 inches for the entire year in 1902. The Capital City also has a new September record with precipitation for the month of September, 1965, standing at 9.69 inches, 7.92 inches above normal. The old record was 8.06 inches in 1906.

At Ulysses the Blue River reached flood stage Thursday before beginning to drop. The river closed one secondary road near the Butler County community. Light crop damage was expected to late crops in low lying fields.

Some Crop Damage

Creeks in the David City area, where 3.50 inches of rain fell, were running at bank level Thursday.

The Republican River near Hardy, located on the Nebraska-Kansas border in south central Nebraska, spilled into lowlands after reaching flood stage. Little damage was reported, however.

Northeast Nebraska apparently escaped immediate flooding despite fears some might develop.

More than 4.50 inches of rain fell during the 30-hour period at Beemer. Plum Creek was flooding pastures there but no other overflow was reported. In the Logan Creek area northeast of Norfolk, rainfall ranged up to 3.75 inches at Wakefield.

The Norfolk weather bureau, which had alerted those who live along small streams to possible flooding, said Thursday the danger had passed.

Lincoln Creek west of Seward was slightly out of its banks Thursday.

On the Little Blue River there was light flooding in the Deweese area.

While heavy flooding was averted, the new drenching had its dismal side for Nebraska farmers.

"Rain is the last thing we need right now, said Kenneth Logan of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics in Lincoln.

"What we need now is some warm, dry weather," he said. "Farmers are falling behind in getting their wheat planted and harvesting their alfalfa, and some of the sorghum fields are ready to harvest. The rain is putting us behind that much longer.

The latest rainfall brought September records to Omaha with a total of 13.75 inches for the month, and to Grand Island where 9.69 inches have fallen.

Coleman Not Convicted; Verdict Is Denounced

. . . CALLED 'APPALLING,' 'TRAVESTY OF JUSTICE'

Hayneville, Ala. (UPI) — An all-white jury acquitted a special deputy sheriff of a civil rights slaying Thursday, but Alabama's outraged attorney general said he isn't through with the case yet.

Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers said the acquittal of 52-year-old Tom Coleman represented the "democratic process going down the drain of irrationality, bigotry and improper enforcement of the law."

Coleman was charged with first-degree manslaughter in the Aug. 20 shotgun slaying of Jonathan Daniels, 26, a white Episcopal seminary student from Keene, N.H.

Coleman could have been sentenced to up to 10 years in prison in the Daniels case. He could draw a year's term for the assault on Morrisroe.

"I firmly believe that the great majority of Alabamans are outraged by this calloused disregard for the taking of a human life in the enforcement of the law."

Daniels and Fr. Morrisroe were shot outside a Hayneville grocery store where they had gone in the company of Negroes.

The jury deliberated 1 hour and 43 minutes before acquitting Coleman—a verdict that marked another in a long series of failures by prosecutors in the Deep South to win convictions in civil rights slaying cases.

Wife Happy

Coleman's wife broke into tears when the verdict was announced. "I knew it all the time," she said, tears running down her cheeks.

"I'm happy," Coleman said, chewing on a wad of gum.

The Rev. John Morris of Atlanta, chairman of the Episcopal Society for Cultural and Racial Unity, which sent Daniels to Alabama to do civil rights work, left the courtroom ashen-faced.

"While justice is winked at once more in Alabama," said the Rev. Mr. Morris, "President Johnson announces plans for a federally sponsored opera company. Such cultural advantages will have little future in a country where the law of the jungle appears increasingly to provide the only alternative for persons unable to expect justice from the courts."

Travesty Of Justice

In Daniels' hometown of Keene, the verdict was received with dismay and a prominent clergyman called on Johnson to take steps to prevent another such "travesty of American justice."

New Hampshire Gov. John W. King likewise said he looked on the verdict as a "travesty of justice."

Ky To Ask For More U.S. Troops

Saigon (UPI) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky Thursday said he will ask the United States for more combat troops to fight the communists in South Viet Nam. American military manpower in South Viet Nam already totals more than 128,000, with another 11,000 due to arrive shortly.

Ky disclosed his planned appeal, as well as his intention to shake up his cabinet, while American planes and ground troops lashed out at the Reds in both North and South Viet Nam.

U.S. Marines launched a new offensive near the big coastal port city of Qui Nhon while other Marine units fanned out from the Da Nang area in a series of smaller attacks. The leathernecks used portable smoke generators in the Da Nang operations to help find Viet Cong tunnel openings.

First Such

It was the first use of such tactical weapons in Viet Nam. A spokesman said the smoke caused no ill effects but did effectively spot tunnel entrances and exits.

Ky did not tell a "get acquainted" breakfast with Vietnamese newsmen and student leaders how many more American troops he would ask for.

Ky also told his guests he hoped to set aside some areas as relaxation centers for foreign troops and confine prostitution to these districts. Vietnamese have complained about the encroachment of bars and loose-living bar girls into formerly respectable neighborhoods.

Ky's guests said he also would announce the creation of a new ministry of peace and war, which would combine military aims with some of the constructive programs designed to win popular loyalty. Maj Gen. Nguyen Huu Co is expected to be named to the new post.

Five Shot

The five executed convicts were not known to be members of the Communist Viet Cong and their crimes were not connected to the war, officials said.

Earlier, the communists shot three captured American soldiers in retaliation for the executions of Viet Cong terrorists by the South Vietnamese government.

Police Hold Man After Woman Escapes Assault

Police were holding a 26-year-old man early Friday morning following the assault and molest of a 19-year-old married woman late Thursday night near 28th and U.

Police said the woman was walking to her home nearby when the man grabbed her as he passed her walking the opposite direction. Following a scuffle the woman got free and ran to her home nearby.

Her husband then pursued the attacker until he caught him, police said.

Crawford Woman Dies In Traffic

Harrison (AP)—A 35-year-old Crawford woman was killed and her husband critically injured in a car collision at the crest of a hill on a country road 12 miles south and 12 miles east of Harrison Thursday.

Killed was Mrs. Doris M. Reece. Her husband, Ovid B. Reece, also 35, was flown to a Denver hospital for treatment. Their son, Rick, 5, and James J. Walter, 18, Marsland, driver of the car they were in, were hospitalized at Crawford.

Driving the other car was 41-year-old Rex E. Osborne of Harrison. He was not seriously hurt.

67th Brigade Top Priority

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara Thursday designated 982 units, chiefly in the Army National Guard, for a 145,000-man select force which will be brought to the "highest possible state of combat readiness." The 67th Infantry Brigade of the Nebraska-Iowa National Guard is one of those units.

At the same time, he ordered that 750 Army Reserve units, totaling some 55,000 men, be disbanded as unneeded to carry out contingency war plans.

The 55,000 men will be given an opportunity to shift to high priority units to help fill out the ranks of those units.

Merger Lines

The plan follows the lines of key features in a controversial proposal to merge the Army Reserve into the Army National Guard.

That merger was banned by Congress, but McNamara said the streamlining announced Thursday is possible under existing law.

The secretary told a news conference that Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus Vance had briefed key members of the House and Senate Armed Service Committees and that he believed they now view the plan favorably.

McNamara said an advisory committee of Army Guard, Reserve and regular generals voted in favor of the plan, but that the decision was not unanimous.

In the force selected for the highest priority in manpower and equipment are three National Guard divisions, six independent brigades and 822 company and detachment-size units from the National Guard, along with 160 units from the Reserve.

The total strength breaks down to 130,000 Guardsmen and 15,000 Reservists.

Among the 750 Reserve units being disbanded are the remaining six Army Reserve divisions. This appeared likely to cause objections from Reservists and backers.

Three States

In selecting the three Guard divisions for the highest priority force, McNamara ordered them broken down so they will be drawn each from three states.

The 28th Infantry Division, currently wholly in Pennsylvania, will have its headquarters, its base and one brigade in Pennsylvania. A second brigade will be provided by the 29th Division from Maryland and a third brigade from Ohio's 37th Division.

The 38th Infantry Division, now entirely in Indiana, will be broken down into the headquarters, base and brigade from Indiana, a brigade from the Illinois 33rd Division and a brigade from the Michigan 46th Division.

The 47th Infantry Division, now entirely in Minnesota, will be regrouped into a headquarters, base and brigade in Minnesota, a brigade from the 32nd Division of Wisconsin and a brigade from the 45th Division of Oklahoma.

The objective is to spread the responsibility among as many states as possible and also the burden in event of mobilization.

Highest Priority

The six highest priority brigades, all infantry, will be:

29th Brigade of Hawaii, 67th Brigade of Nebraska and Iowa, the 69th Brigade of Kansas and Missouri, a brigade from the Texas 36th Division, a brigade from the 41st Division of Oregon and Washington and a brigade from the 49th Division of California.

McNamara said that Army Guard and Reserve units have been selected from all 50 states to fit into the select force that will be ready for deployment within eight weeks of mobilization.

The six Reserve divisions being disbanded are the: 63rd Infantry Division of California, 77th Infantry Division of New York, the 81st Infantry Division of Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina and Tennessee; the 83rd Infantry Division of Ohio and West Virginia, the 90th Infantry Division of Texas and the 102nd Infantry Division of Missouri and Illinois.

The units picked for the highest priority force will have their drills increased from 48 to 72 a year and will get priority in equipment and maintenance.

McNamara said that consideration will be given to advancing the time for annual field training for these units. Normally, that field training comes in summer.

Colonel Terms Move Expected

Col. Don G. Penterman, Nebraska deputy adjutant general, Thursday termed the Defense Department decision to speed up the training of the 67th Infantry Brigade was expected because of its "high priority."

He said, "There are a limited number of these types of infantry brigades in the country."

Penterman said there are about 3,200 men in the brigade, headed by Brig. Gen. William Bachman of Omaha.

The brigade is an independent, self-supporting unit of the 5th Army. One of its infantry and two armor battalions come from western Iowa.

The colonel said the 67th Nebraska brigade anticipates no problems in adjusting to the new drill pace.

High-Speed Ground Travel Developing

Washington (AP) — President Johnson signed legislation Thursday aimed at developing high-speed mass travel on the ground. And he announced the first test of trains zooming 125 miles an hour will begin in about a year.

Johnson then asked Congress for $20 million for the first year of the $90-million, three-year research and development program. It will be spent $10 million for research, $8 million for demonstration projects and $2 million to collect and improve statistics.

The Pennsylvania Railroad will join with the government in purchasing up to 50 experimental rail passenger cars expected to be delivered by the fall of next year. The railroad will begin using them between New York and Washington and later between New York and Boston.

Cut Off Hour

The 125-mile-an-hour speed would cut the travel time between New York and Washington from 4½ to 3½ hours, a railroad official said.

The President, in launching the ambitious undertaking in a ceremony in the White House East Room before a gathering of several hundred, said:

"We have airplanes which fly three times faster than sound. We have television cameras orbiting Mars. But we have the same tired, inadequate mass transportation between our towns and cities that we had 30 years ago."

Johnson said, "Today, an astronaut can orbit the earth faster than a man on the ground can get from New York to Washington. Yet, the same science and technology which gave us our airplanes and our space probes could also give us better, faster, more economical transportation on the ground."

All Ground Travel

Many presidents of major railroads and chiefs of railroad unions were among the members of Congress and government officials present for the signing ceremony. But Johnson told them the undertaking will not be limited to railroads.

"We will be investigating all the new and promising concepts of high-speed ground travel. We may find that meeting the transportation needs of the coming decades require radical new techniques yet unknown," he said.

The Eastern seaboard was chosen for the first railroad experiments because of its population density and resulting traffic snarls. 'A major aim of the program is to determine whether high speed rail service between big cities can take passengers and vehicles off the highways.

Pope's Trip Another Sign Of Change In Church

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Writer

The peace-making journey by Pope Paul VI Monday promises another striking outward sign of an inner transformation at work today in the Roman Catholic Church.

It is moving out of its own defenses into open interchange with the varied forces of modern times.

The church, Pope Paul said near the outset of his reign, intends to "build a bridge toward the contemporary world."

And he has proceeded to act out that enterprise by his series of unprecedented travels, to the Holy Land, to India, and now to the United States.

Out Of The Bastion

Physically and in person, he has dramatized the emergence of Roman Catholicism from its long-time guarded bastions into concourse with non-Christian as well as Christian realms.

"The church should enter into dialogue with the world in which it exists and labors," Pope Paul said in his first encyclical. " . . . We must meet the world and talk with it."

This has involved not only papal travels, however, but a deep-going readjustment of policies and practice, along with new machinery to effect the changes.

It has brought about the establishment of an army of new Vatican secretariats — one to promote unity with other Christians, one to foster relationships with Judaism and other non-Christian religions, one to develop contacts with nonbelievers.

Swelling Wave

The steps have spurred a swelling wave of unparalleled meetings and conversations, both in this country and abroad, between Catholics and leaders in other churches and fields.

The excursions by Paul VI, who is often called the "apostle on the move," has provided the graphic, external symbol of this underlying reorientation. He has described it this way:

"Let the world know this: The church looks at the world with profound understanding with sincere admiration and with the sincere intention, not of conquering it, but of serving it; not of despising it, but of appreciating it; not of condemning it, but of strengthening and saving it."

This outlook, he adds, esteems the contributions of varied cultures, of learning, of scientists, of artists, of catholics and non-Catholics. The church looks "beyond her own sphere," he has said.

Fortress Catholicism

The approach contrasts markedly with past Catholic tendencies to hold apart from the varied cross-currents of modern societies — maintaining what church scholars now refer to as an outmoded "fortress Catholicism."

It had concentrated on reinforcing its own bulwarks, warding off and condemning divergent voices, wary of contact with the secular tides. Even the Pope had become a so-called "prisoner" of the Vatican.

But he now roves the earth —even as the church ventures into fresh avenues of relationships with others.

The change, a keynote of the Second Vatican Council, has produced some history-making new policy documents, including the decree on ecumenism, the preliminary approval of declarations upholding religious liberty and fraternal ties with Judaism.

Shaping The Frame

These and other moves shape the framework for the increased reciprocal relations with other churches, other religions, other groups and the alien environments of the past.

Simultaneously, the Pope demonstrates this new mode —by voyaging out to mingle with the world's assorted peoples and nations.

Throughout the history of Christianity, it has sometimes tended to withdraw from the world around it, as if spiritual and temporal affairs were unconnected categories — a "City of Man" divorced from "the City of God."

Pope Paul has criticized this "dualistic" tendency for the church to become remote from secular society — thus immobilizing the church in its work and depriving the world.

To fulfill its purposes, he says, the church must "move ahead into the stormy sea of the world."

Actor Merrill Eyes Politics

Merrill, former husband of actress Betty Davis, announced that he will run for the Maine house of representatives next year as a Democrat.

He said he eventually hoped to campaign for governor of the traditionally Republican state.

Merrill, 48, who lives in Maine, said he has always been interested in politics.

Ronald Reagan is a contender for the 1966 GOP gubernatorial nomination in California and Steve Allen has announced he is considering seeking the congressional seat vacated by Democrat Rep. James Roosevelt.

Peking Does Best Job Of Keeping Out

United Nations, N.Y. (AP)—Once-busy American lobbyists against Red China are finding little to do this year. They say Peking is doing its own job of keeping itself out of the United Nations.

Peking has just loudly proclaimed its doctrine of revolutionary war around the world, maneuvered against the U.N. peace effort in the India-Pakistan conflict and called for revamping of the United Nations plus ouster of Nationalist China as her price for entering the international organization.

This combination of Red Chinese belligerence and scorn of the United Nations has given U.S. delegates considerable optimism in the face of what they term routine moves by Russia, France, Albania and others to give Peking a U.N. seat.

Ak Champion Steer Brings Record Price

. . . Reserve Also Sets Mark

Omaha (AP)—A record $10 a pound was paid Thursday for the grand champion market steer at Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock Show. It was almost twice the $5.50 paid for the 1964 champion.

The 925-pound Angus steer, shown by Linda Mitchell of Hudson, Iowa, was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Ross Lorello, operators of Ross' Steak House, who have purchased seven of the last eight grand champions named at Ak-Sar-Ben.

A record price also was paid for the reserve grand champion, a Hereford shown by Bernard Nowlan of Melbourne, Iowa. Safeway Stores paid $1.70 for the animal and promptly announced it ould be donated to the University of Nebraska football team.

Other purple ribbon steers sold for an average of $40.50 per hundredweight.

Samson Will Watch LBJ Sign Bill

Omaha (AP) — John S. Samson, Omaha attorney, will leave Friday morning to be present when President Johnson signs a bill amending the water pollution control act.

Samson, a Republican, was appointed to the water pollution control advisory board in 1959 by President Dwight Eisenhower.

Now, six years later the bill amending the pollution control act, has been passed by Democratic controlled Congress. "Rain drops, as well as kilowatts, cannot be painted by a political brush," Samson said.

He declared this new measure "elevates the status of the entire water pollution program into the top echelon, insofar as administration is concerned. "It will no longer be buried" in the bottom drawer of Washington bureaucracy," he said

Samson said M. O. Steen, director of Nebraska's Game, Forestation and Parks Commission, also has been invited to the signing of the bill in the White House Oct 2

Papio Ordinance Vote Is Delayed Pending Study

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha City Council has delayed until next Tuesday a vote on an ordinance to prevent construction of buildings along the banks of the Little and Big Papio Creeks.

After a storm of protest, City Attorney Herbert Fitle asked for the extra time to study the legality of the ordinance recommended by the Papio Watershed Board and the Omaha Planning Board.

The general manager of the Papio Advisory Board, John Neuberger, called present legislation definitely inadequate, and another supporter said the ordinance would save the taxpayers money in land acquisition for right of way when it comes time to improve the streams.

Opponents contended, among other things, the ordinance was unconstitutional because it amounted to condemnation without compensation. Another said the ordinance affected the rights of all property owners along the Papio.

Income Tax Blows Landed

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The proposed Nebraska state income tax took it on the chin in several separate actions this week and we find in the process some signs of the problems that face the state. A prominent Nebraskan with whom we visited last week pointed to the economic situation as the one most in need of attention in the state at this time. He was right and he demonstrated a keen insight in pointing to economics rather than just taxes.

Opposition Of Labor

Taxation is only a part of the overall economic situation but it is a big part. Nebraska labor went on record this week as opposed to the proposed income tax. It sees the tax as too great a burden on the poor man and too much relief for the wealthy. We see it just the opposite but we see a lot more than that. The income tax has to do with the total economic picture about which our visitor of last week spoke. One labor man argued at the group's state convention that what is wanted is "economy in government and enforcement of present tax laws."

Ordinarily, labor is considered more inclined toward the Democratic party but political abnormalities are an integral part of the income tax picture. Also this week leaders of the two parties in Nebraska jointly submitted to state officials signed petitions calling for an election on the proposed new income tax. Neither party has a solid affirmative stand in connection with taxation.

Neither labor nor the political parties have appeared to take any kind of long-range look at the Nebraska situation. The parties look for votes rather than the dictates of leadership and labor looks at an immediate dollars-and-cents picture rather than its ultimate purpose and objectives. In the process, the state remains mired in uncertainty and timidity.

Passage by the Legislature of the income tax bill marked what might have been and still could be a possible turning point for Nebraska. It was recognition by this body of an outmoded approach to the economic demands of the times in the field of public spending. It was an effort to escape the narrow confines of the property tax which results in an unequal distribution of the tax load among the people and institutions of the state and which strips government of an effective means of meeting its responsibilities. Thus, we have a tax base that contributes to constriction rather than expansion of the state, to a kind of holding action rather than any effort to move forward.

In its disillusionment with the actions of government insofar as its selfish objections are concerned, labor could find the same underlying forces and motivations that now are at work against the income tax. If only it would look far and deep enough, labor would find itself with its tax position aligned with the very forces that have for so long been in league against it. It would find in the anti-income-tax camp those people who long have advocated a status quo for this state, a non-rocking of the boat of privilege and influence and power that have given them such satisfaction. Who does labor believe it is that sells this state as a place where industry can get eight hours of work done cheaper than it can in most other parts of the nation?

Who does labor believe it is that stands for repeal of Section 14b of the Taft-Hartley law, for no increase in the minimum wage, for property tax exemption for industry, for government credit for industrial expansion and for many other things that are aimed at the weakening of the position of the unions or laboring man?

The people who so feel and act are the same people and groups who now are opposed to the income tax. They don't want an income tax because they have a good deal now under the property tax and they want no loosening of the economic reins by which government is now held in check. They contribute nothing toward changing conditions in this state which have brought about a continuing out-migration of our young people and limited opportunities for many who do stay here.

Groundwork For Change

The last session of the Legislature went heavily against this trend with passage of constructive laws and programs in many areas, including the income tax. That Legislature made a sincere effort to lay the groundwork by which some of the difficulties that have hurt the state in the past might be slowly eliminated. By opposing the income tax, the labor groups simply play into the hands of those who want no progress in Nebraska because it might endanger the favored position they now occupy.

Barring any unforeseen developments, the petition drive against the tax will put the issue on the ballot in 1966. The most prominent opinion now is that the tax will be beaten at the polls and the opinion is hard to argue with at this time. One might ask only where the road of true progress lies for Nebraska if this change in the tax base is not a part of it.

Another Wrong Unanswered

A jury has acquitted Thomas L. Coleman of manslaughter in the death last summer in Alabama of a young civil rights worker. The situation, at best, leaves one wondering if the scales of justice still are in balance.

The civil rights worker killed was an Episcopal seminarian who was working alongside a Catholic priest, now in a Chicago hospital as a result of gun-shot wounds received when his companion was killed. Both men were fired upon by Coleman, a part-time deputy sheriff, as they got out of a car to enter a place to eat.

Coleman's defense was that he fired in self-defense. Despite the character of the man killed and his companion and the testimony of witnesses that neither man was armed, the jury apparently bought the self-defense plea.

News accounts show hardly anything but sketchy testimony to support the contention that either of the men shot had any weapons on him, much less in his hand. Nor is the story a very plausible one for an Episcopal seminarian and a Catholic priest.

In total the defense claim was a weak one and one that carried little supporting evidence. The prosecution, on the other hand, seemed to leave little doubt that the death of the civil rights worker was completely without cause.

The pattern of acquittal is one that has held true in a great many such cases in the bitter civil rights struggle in the South. When men can kill without fear of public indignation and with virtual assurance of no legal accountability, our society has been infected with a most lethal germ.

Sen. Morton's Advice

Sen. Thurston Morton, a Republican of unimpeachable position and a true party leader, has advised his fellow Republicans to cast out the John Birch Society.

This is a brave statement, but still a piece of sound advice. No general party can prevail if it allows itself to become a vehicle for an overzealous minority. It must adhere to principles to which the maximum number of voters can safely repair.

Sen. Morton may get shouted down, but if he does it will be a sign of party weakness rather than strength. And if he does not prevail the future of the party will grow dimmer.

This is a nation with a political principle that allows a full expression of all interests, with party members along a wide range of sentiments. It is wrong for any party to hand its emblem over to any of its minorities, either to the right or to the left.

The greatest need of the Republican party today is temperateness and a readiness to grapple with today's problems today. The nation is not disposed against a constructive conservatism. It is also aware of the inevitable danger of a one party system.

The American system, to work at its best, requires dialogue, an able representation of more than one point of view. It is ridiculous to say that the Democratic party will always have the right answers because it has most of the voters, and a great majority of the lawmakers and control of the national administration.

It is the duty of the Republican party to reshape its stance without abandoning its historic principles so that it can return to the political combat with effect. This is the only way we have of getting true dialogue.

Safe For A Time

The Greek political crisis has simmered down with young King Constantine just a little more than a Pyhrric winner.

Premier Papandreou, who was fired, probably unconstitutionally, by the King, was able to stop two of the king's nominees for the premiership in their tracks but lost enough votes that Premier Stephanapoulos received confirmation.

The Greek government can now move forward.

But where Papandreou once controlled 170 votes in the Greek parliament he dropped to 126 in the final test. If this latter number are true die-hards Papandreou still wields enough power to make it difficult for the king and the Stephanopolos government. And it is significant that Mr. Papandreou has not quit fighting.

No doubt the king lost ground. He will have to behave in an exemplary manner from here on out or his monarchy will go into the junk heap. It is to be hoped that his narrow escape will not make him high headed. And it is especially to be hoped that the new government will be a good one.

Greece is a democratic monarchy mainly in name. Its inheritance from the past and especially from its long experience under Turkish control has dimmed its democratic approach.

But under present troubled circumstances, the king's type of democracy is greatly better than the probable alternative. It is to be feared that a fall of government would throw Greece into communism rather than into a freer form of democracy. That would be a serious blow to western influence in that part of the Mediterranean which today is truly a tinder pot.

Guinea Plays Both Sides For Benefits

ABIDJAN, The Ivory Coast—One morning during the days when Russia was pouring aid into the new Republic of Guinea, the Russians landed two huge sets of road building equipment on the docks at Conakry. Along with the steamrollers and bulldozers, believe it or not, were four snowplows!

This for a country which sits almost on the equator and where the temperature averages around 90 degrees.

The only thing slightly resembling snow in sight was an acre of white bidets, the elite toilet equipment used in Parisien bathrooms and almost as unnecessary in underdeveloped Guinea as the snowplows.

The arrival of the snowplows and the Czechoslovak bidets is reported to have so soured relations between Guinea and the Soviet Union that Russian Ambassador Solod was asked to leave. Other factors contributed to his departure, including his rudeness to President Sekou Toure. But, all in all, the Russians proved just as inefficient in foreign aid as Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., claims we are.

Since that time, Guinea has tried to balance the USSR and the U.S.A. against each other to get as much aid out of both as possible. Some call it blackmail.

In the process of doing this, smart young President Sekou Toure has balanced the Harvey Aluminum Company and no less than Tom Dewey, its attorney, off against no less than Khrushchev and Kosygin.

The Harveys, with Tom Dewey helping them, have secured reputedly the richest bauxite concession in the world at Boke. At the same time, the Russians have got themselves euchred into building a huge hydroelectric dam on the Konkoure River to generate the power to smelt the Harveys' aluminum.

President Sekou Toure, adroit in balancing capitalism off against communism, returned from Moscow in August to announced that the Russians had agreed to finance this giant dam, plus an aluminum smelter.

President Sekou Toure was a bit vague about this huge project, except to say that the dam would generate 600,000 kilowatts, and that he had left his brother in Moscow to work out further details.

The brother, Ismael Toure, once came to Washington to euchre aid out of the Johnson administration and was smart enough to wear an LBJ button. When the President met him briefly during a cabinet room conference, he spotted the button and made a joking remark that he might need his help someday in Texas.

The button was quite small and the President's eyesight had to be very good to spot it. Afterward someone asked Keith Linden, astute lobbyist for Harvey aluminum, how Ismael Toure happened to be wearing the button.

"I saw to that," Replied Linden. "I also called the White House staff to tell the President to look for it."

Johnson Presides Over Capital News

WASHINGTON — Every Friday is J-Day to the top administrators of the great society. It is their deadline for submitting the weekly grist of news about what goes on here to the office of White House Press Secretary Bill Moyers.

There it is winnowed for President Johnson's use as he sees fit and the ranks of the departmental mimeograph machines fall silent until after he has made his selection. The cream of the news is his for the taking, naturally, and the administrators are thereafter free to attract what attention they can with what is left.

Even so, they are cautious. Departmental news conferences are rare and highly irregular. The most frequent are held by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, whose talent of reducing every color to grey is much appreciated by the President though not by reporters.

The presidential press conference is also much reduced as an institution of public information. Formerly it was reasonably frequent, held at regular intervals and largely open to wide questioning. It is now held at the pleasure of the President with short notice and in varying places. Sometimes he makes extended formal statements. Often he uses it to introduce new appointees.

It is, of course, the President's prerogative to dominate the news. If he failed to exercise it, that, too, would be news. Few have done the job as systematically and have organized the bureaucracy as thoroughly to help with the job.

The effect upon the bureaucrats could be foreseen. They have no desire to compete with the President for the notice of reporters and cannot be expected to do so. It is not necessary to believe that they are browbeaten. It is only necessary to know that timidity is the occupational disease of politics.

The Johnson consensus also minimizes controversy and friction within the government of the kind that has made lively reading in past administrations. Johnson administrators are not supposed to vie with one another for power, appropriations or on matters of policy. Such matters are settled behind closed doors, and the theory is that that is what closed doors are for.

The theory is symbolized by the ever-increasing closing off of individual White House offices from the gaze of reporters stationed there. Their waiting room, the lobby of the executive offices, has been made far more comfortable for lounging. It does not help them to watch who goes in and out.

It might almost be a bank — an old-fashioned bank, that is. Modern banks are seeking to embrace the customers and show they care.

It was a simple enough matter a few years back to determine the change of seasons, says Mrs. Joe Heitz in the Schuyler Sun. And the calculation had nothing to do with an involved study of the solar system, either. It just went like this . . .

"Spring came when Ma let us take off our long underwear. Summer arrived the day school closed. Fall came when school began after summer vacation. And winter arrived the day the first snow fell."

Getting by one full moon without frost, Mrs. Roy Ahrndt and other Scribner farm families were hopeful that that meant another month of moderate temperatures. The weatherman, meanwhile, was inclined to be less cooperative.

Some over-eager Kearney home owners were beginning to regret that they had been of the early-bird variety in applying fertilizer to their lawns for the fall season. With more than a week of rain on the lawns, the growth of the grass was such that the lawn mowers had to be brought back into frequent use.

One frustrated backyard farmer reported his grass so long that he was having trouble finding the lawn sprinkler.

Arms Makers Find Outlet For Gooc

WASHINGTON — Argentina, teetering for months in a state of economic and political jitters, has just agreed to buy 50 jet attack planes, the A4B, from the Douglas Aircraft Co. at a cost of about $250,000 each.

This deal says a lot about the competition to sell advanced weapons in underdeveloped countries struggling to overcome grave economic handicaps.

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara reacts indignantly to reports of Pentagon arms salesmen persuading the governments of these countries to buy American weapons. Not so, he says. The American objective is to hold down arms budgets in underdeveloped countries to a minimum.

But British, French, German and Italian arms merchants are pushing their wares in Latin America, the Middle East and Africa. The goal of the United States in instance after instance is to sell cheaper and sell less. The theory is that in this way military budgets in the underdeveloped countries can be restrained. If it were not for American competition acting as a brake, there would be no limit on the use of all too scarce foreign exchange for the arms buildup.

The Argentine deal is cited as an example of how this works. The French were pushing their Mirage jet plane which has, according to American specialists, a rock bottom price of $600,000. Fifty Mirages would have cost Argentina more than twice as much as 50 A4Bs and, therefore, at least $15 million has been saved for the needs pressing so hard on a government beset with many troubles.

The A4B is an early version of the Skyhawk which was designed for the close support of ground troops. It is capable of carrying either nuclear or conventional weapons. While American pilots may speak with something less than respect of the A4B, which will replace British Gloucester Meteors, it is for the Argentine Air Force an advanced weapon.

That means that in order to maintain 50 A4Bs, highly trained technicians, scarce in all underdeveloped countries, will be taken from productive enterprise. McNamara readily concedes that this is one reason the introduction of advanced weapons into poor countries can only work to hinder economic progress. But to say that no arms should be sold, he contends, is like arguing against sin.

You can't abolish sin but you can keep it in check. Thus by holding arms shipments to both Pakistan and India at a minimum, neither country was capable of sustaining a long war and this was an important factor in obtaining a cease-fire and bringing the conflict at least to a partial halt. No one, certainly not McNamara, looks with anything but dismay at the steadily mounting budgets of poor countries. With India's defense budget approaching $2 billion a year, the struggle to keep ahead, just in finding enough food for an ever increasing number of mouths, is severely handicapped.

If the competition between the big arms merchants continues, then McNamara's approach makes sense. But a recent study commissioned by the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency points to a constructive way out that would apply particularly to Latin America.

This is for a regional agreement among the big powers supplying arms to bar "the sale or transfer of weapons commonly understood to be sophisticated, offensive or expensive." Such an agreement would omit arms "legitimately required for internal security needs." A share of the American grant-in-aid arms program for Latin America—Congress imposed a ceiling on this program for all the republics of $55 million—has gone to arms to fight banditry and communist infiltration.

Guinea Plays Both Sides For Benefits

ABIDJAN, The Ivory Coast—One morning during the days when Russia was pouring aid into the new Republic of Guinea, the Russians landed two huge sets of road building equipment on the docks at Conakry. Along with the steamrollers and bulldozers, believe it or not, were four snowplows!

This for a country which sits almost on the equator and where the temperature averages around 90 degrees.

The only thing slightly resembling snow in sight was an acre of white bidets, the elite toilet equipment used in Parisien bathrooms and almost as unnecessary in underdeveloped Guinea as the snowplows.

The arrival of the snowplows and the Czechoslovak bidets is reported to have so soured relations between Guinea and the Soviet Union that Russian Ambassador Solod was asked to leave. Other factors contributed to his departure, including his rudeness to President Sekou Toure. But, all in all, the Russians proved just as inefficient in foreign aid as Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., claims we are.

Since that time, Guinea has tried to balance the USSR and the U.S.A. against each other to get as much aid out of both as possible. Some call it blackmail.

In the process of doing this, smart young President Sekou Toure has balanced the Harvey Aluminum Company and no less than Tom Dewey, its attorney, off against no less than Khrushchev and Kosygin.

The Harveys, with Tom Dewey helping them, have secured reputedly the richest bauxite concession in the world at Boke. At the same time, the Russians have got themselves euchred into building a huge hydroelectric dam on the Konkoure River to generate the power to smelt the Harveys' aluminum.

President Sekou Toure, adroit in balancing capitalism off against communism, returned from Moscow in August to announced that the Russians had agreed to finance this giant dam, plus an aluminum smelter.

President Sekou Toure was a bit vague about this huge project, except to say that the dam would generate 600,000 kilowatts, and that he had left his brother in Moscow to work out further details.

The brother, Ismael Toure, once came to Washington to euchre aid out of the Johnson administration and was smart enough to wear an LBJ button. When the President met him briefly during a cabinet room conference, he spotted the button and made a joking remark that he might need his help someday in Texas.

The button was quite small and the President's eyesight had to be very good to spot it. Afterward someone asked Keith Linden, astute lobbyist for Harvey aluminum, how Ismael Toure happened to be wearing the button.

"I saw to that," Replied Linden. "I also called the White House staff to tell the President to look for it."

Johnson Presides Over Capital News

WASHINGTON — Every Friday is J-Day to the top administrators of the great society. It is their deadline for submitting the weekly grist of news about what goes on here to the office of White House Press Secretary Bill Moyers.

There it is winnowed for President Johnson's use as he sees fit and the ranks of the departmental mimeograph machines fall silent until after he has made his selection. The cream of the news is his for the taking, naturally, and the administrators are thereafter free to attract what attention they can with what is left.

Even so, they are cautious. Departmental news conferences are rare and highly irregular. The most frequent are held by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, whose talent of reducing every color to grey is much appreciated by the President though not by reporters.

The presidential press conference is also much reduced as an institution of public information. Formerly it was reasonably frequent, held at regular intervals and largely open to wide questioning. It is now held at the pleasure of the President with short notice and in varying places. Sometimes he makes extended formal statements. Often he uses it to introduce new appointees.

It is, of course, the President's prerogative to dominate the news. If he failed to exercise it, that, too, would be news. Few have done the job as systematically and have organized the bureaucracy as thoroughly to help with the job.

The effect upon the bureaucrats could be foreseen. They have no desire to compete with the President for the notice of reporters and cannot be expected to do so. It is not necessary to believe that they are browbeaten. It is only necessary to know that timidity is the occupational disease of politics.

The Johnson consensus also minimizes controversy and friction within the government of the kind that has made lively reading in past administrations. Johnson administrators are not supposed to vie with one another for power, appropriations or on matters of policy. Such matters are settled behind closed doors, and the theory is that that is what closed doors are for.

The theory is symbolized by the ever-increasing closing off of individual White House offices from the gaze of reporters stationed there. Their waiting room, the lobby of the executive offices, has been made far more comfortable for lounging. It does not help them to watch who goes in and out.

It might almost be a bank — an old-fashioned bank, that is. Modern banks are seeking to embrace the customers and show they care.

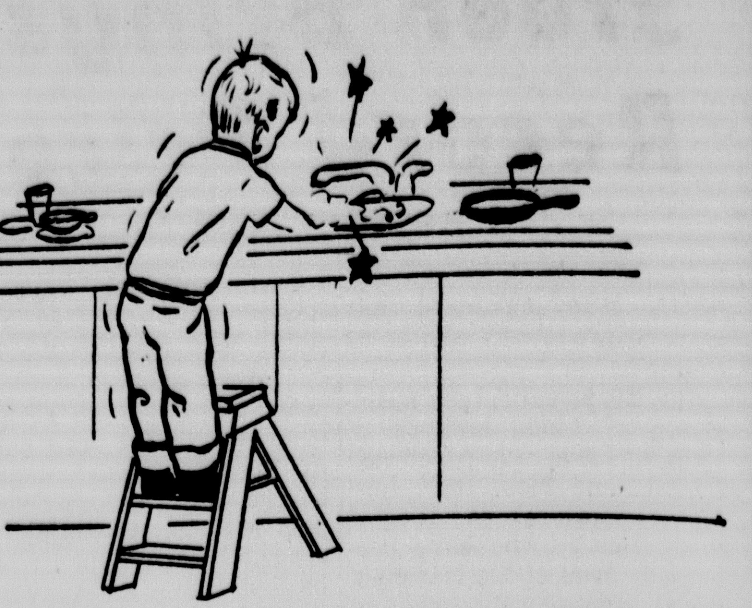
THE NEIGHBORS SAY

Now, Sweet-Smelling Menfolk

By MONA B. PARKER



A Hastings youngster sometimes finds himself in the role of Mother's little helper, much to his disgust. He explains a part of such household chores. "Aw, she has me dry the knives and forks, because we don't have silver. We have painless steel."

It was a simple enough matter a few years back to determine the change of seasons, says Mrs. Joe Heitz in the Schuyler Sun. And the calculation had nothing to do with an involved study of the solar system, either. It just went like this . . .

"Spring came when Ma let us take off our long underwear. Summer arrived the day school closed. Fall came when school began after summer vacation. And winter arrived the day the first snow fell."

Getting by one full moon without frost, Mrs. Roy Ahrndt and other Scribner farm families were hopeful that that meant another month of moderate temperatures. The weatherman, meanwhile, was inclined to be less cooperative.

"Those soybeans and the later corn all need another month of warm weather to mature."

Some over-eager Kearney home owners were beginning to regret that they had been of the early-bird variety in applying fertilizer to their lawns for the fall season. With more than a week of rain on the lawns, the growth of the grass was such that the lawn mowers had to be brought back into frequent use.

One frustrated backyard farmer reported his grass so long that he was having trouble finding the lawn sprinkler.

The Lexington Clipper describes it thus:

"All told, the weather hasn't been just what those with hay and silage to process have really wanted."

The Dakota County Star wants to know if there is anyone who might have use for nearly a thousand 1964 green on white Nebraska license plates . . .

Seems the county treasurer there ordered them thinking of using the numerals for at least two years. Then the Legislature fouled her all up by its directive on fancy new reflectorized plates with red numbers and white backgrounds, plus the word "Centennial."

One enterprising South Sioux Citian made good use of a similar supply of license plates a few years ago. He shingled his hog house with them, then applied spray paint.

Cosmetic manufacturers had to ease into it slowly, Bill Plourd reports in the Nance County Journal, because it's something that can't be hurried. But now it can be told. And now it can be sold.

"Perfumes for men are here and being openly displayed and sold in the marts of trade."

Mr. Plourd takes a dim view of it. Next thing, he's afraid, will be masculine lipstick and men's home permanents.

But of all the trends and fads, the thing that really bugs him the most is "when I see a boy and a girl approaching me on the street and the boy's hair is longer than the girl's."

Cary Reynolds doesn't claim any great thespian leanings or achievements. However, she did have a certain unique place in the theater. In discussing a local Little Theater production, the Curtis Hy-Line Enterprise columnist chuckled in recalling something out of the past . . .

"Seventy-five years ago I played 'Topsy' in Uncle Tom's Cabin. No one else would allow their little darlings to be smeared up with soot and lard."

Librarians in Friend and elsewhere do a little fairly accurate deducing that doesn't require a book. Art Brown of the Sentinel says that when people show up at the libraries after a lengthy absence, "they know certain televisions are out of business."

MARQUIS CHILDS

Arms Makers Find Outlet For Goods

WASHINGTON — Argentina, teetering for months in a state of economic and political jitters, has just agreed to buy 50 jet attack planes, the A4B, from the Douglas Aircraft Co. at a cost of about $250,000 each.

This deal says a lot about the competition to sell advanced weapons in underdeveloped countries struggling to overcome grave economic handicaps.

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara reacts indignantly to reports of Pentagon arms salesmen persuading the governments of these countries to buy American weapons. Not so, he says. The American objective is to hold down arms budgets in underdeveloped countries to a minimum.

But British, French, German and Italian arms merchants are pushing their wares in Latin America, the Middle East and Africa. The goal of the United States in instance after instance is to sell cheaper and sell less. The theory is that in this way military budgets in the underdeveloped countries can be restrained. If it were not for American competition acting as a brake, there would be no limit on the use of all too scarce foreign exchange for the arms buildup.

The Argentine deal is cited as an example of how this works. The French were pushing their Mirage jet plane which has, according to American specialists, a rock bottom price of $600,000. Fifty Mirages would have cost Argentina more than twice as much as 50 A4Bs and, therefore, at least $15 million has been saved for the needs pressing so hard on a government beset with many troubles.

The A4B is an early version of the Skyhawk which was designed for the close support of ground troops. It is capable of carrying either nuclear or conventional weapons. While American pilots may speak with something less than respect of the A4B, which will replace British Gloucester Meteors, it is for the Argentine Air Force an advanced weapon.

That means that in order to maintain 50 A4Bs, highly trained technicians, scarce in all underdeveloped countries, will be taken from productive enterprise. McNamara readily concedes that this is one reason the introduction of advanced weapons into poor countries can only work to hinder economic progress. But to say that no arms should be sold, he contends, is like arguing against sin.

You can't abolish sin but you can keep it in check. Thus by holding arms shipments to both Pakistan and India at a minimum, neither country was capable of sustaining a long war and this was an important factor in obtaining a cease-fire and bringing the conflict at least to a partial halt. No one, certainly not McNamara, looks with anything but dismay at the steadily mounting budgets of poor countries. With India's defense budget approaching $2 billion a year, the struggle to keep ahead, just in finding enough food for an ever increasing number of mouths, is severely handicapped.

If the competition between the big arms merchants continues, then McNamara's approach makes sense. But a recent study commissioned by the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency points to a constructive way out that would apply particularly to Latin America.

This is for a regional agreement among the big powers supplying arms to bar "the sale or transfer of weapons commonly understood to be sophisticated, offensive or expensive." Such an agreement would omit arms "legitimately required for internal security needs." A share of the American grant-in-aid arms program for Latin America--Congress imposed a ceiling on this program for all the republics of $55 million—has gone to arms to fight banditry and communist infiltration.

An ironic commentary on the aggressive arms' merchants who are everywhere is that much of what they are pushing their own governments refer to contemptuously as junk. In short, they are unloading, for a price, obsolete weapons.

Ten years ago the British sold Argentina an aircraft carrier. The planes were obsolete. This was after the sale of a similar carrier to Brazil had stimulated national rivalry and suspicion. The British sold two cruisers to Peru for $5 million each. Because there was not enough trained personnel for both, the crew operated first one and then the other. Kidded for having put rather outdated equipment on the auction block, a British attache is said to have replied, at a cocktail party in one of the Latin American capitals:

"When it comes down to that, old boy, our whole fleet is up for sale."

Our Song

Lincoln, Neb.

To a loyal Nebraskan, the No. 2 patriotic song in the nation is, "There Is No Place Like Nebraska." Only "The Star-Spangled Banner" commands more respect or raises the goose-bumps more quickly. At this time of year when that rousing Cornhusker song is played, it alerts one to news of the university football tean.

To this Cornhusker "nut," it is obnoxious, sacrilegious and sneaky for radio and television advertisers to use "our" song as a come-on or attention-getter to sell a product. The ad men who dream up such commercials should hang their heads in shame. They are on my black list.

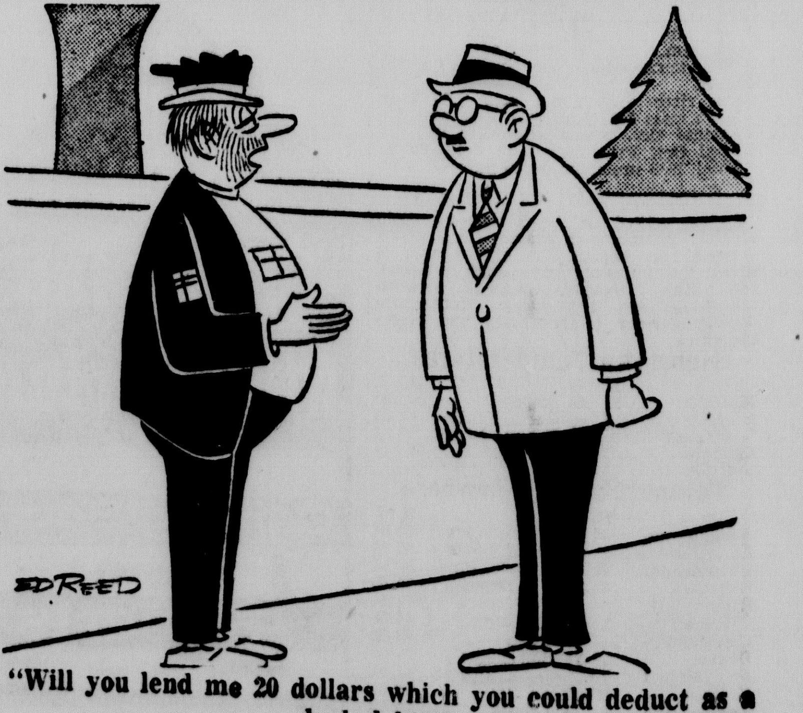
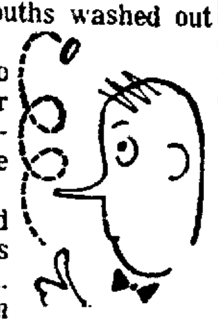
OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed



"Will you lend me 20 dollars which you could deduct as a bad debt?"

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Wakened this morning to a clatter of pans in the kitchen. And some language — if I heard right — people used to get their mouths washed out for.



"What do you want for your birthday?" she shouted.

"What kind of question is that?" I said. "I don't even want to think about birthdays. Anyway, it's a long way off."

"We have to make plans," she said.

I said: "Give me some coffee. Black."

"I thought we'd give each other mutual presents this year," she said. "A family present. We could have the kitchen painted."

"That's just fine," I said. "Especially since you don't have a birthday for six more months."

"I'm perfectly willing to contribute my birthday present," she said. "We could put in those new spice shelves—the pans are always falling out when I reach for the pepper.

"There's a wonderful arrangement in 'House and Garden' this month," she said. "The kitchen is burnt orange And the spice cabinet is early New England. It fits in the corner."

I said: "Do you realize what it costs to—."

She said: "I've already called the painter for an estimate. It will be our birthday gift to each other. You don't have to buy me a thing on my birthday."

I said: "That's the funniest story I've heard all year, ha, ha. If I came home without a birthday present–."

She said: "Just get me some little trinket. It's the thought that counts. You'd better get dressed. The painter's coming at 9:30."

I said: "I thought after the last job for us, he'd be in the Mediterranean. On his yacht."

"I want to get you some little thing, too," she said generously. "You could use a new tie."

"How about a pass to visit the poorhouse," I said. "I'd like to get one of the good rooms before they're all gone."

"Now," she said, "who do you want to invite to the birthday party."

"I don't want a party," I said. "I want to forget it. Do you realize I'll be—. Give me some more coffee, will you?"

She poured the coffee and said: "I just want you to have a happy birthday. I've asked the Whipsnitches."

I said: "You mean that dumb rabbit who's always talking about the hikes he takes on Sunday? The health food nut?"

She said: "His wife is on the Hospital and Orphans Committee—you know, they asked me to join."

"I'm an orphan myself," I said. "And I should be in a hospital. What have they done for me?"

"Now don't start that again," she said.

"I thought I'd design the kitchen myself," she said. "We'll have to have that corner taken out to fit the new refrigerator."

"A new refrigerator!" I cried. "What's wrong with this one?"

"It's the wrong color," she said. "Wrong for the new color scheme. So we might as well get a larger one. I saw.."

I said: "Will you kindly tell me where we are going to get the money?"

She said bravely: "If you can't even help on your birthday, I'll just get it out of household. Somehow."

The painter came and she said: "I'm redesigning the whole thing myself."

The painter looked happy. When a chick does her own designing, it is open season. She gave him the last cup of coffee. She gave me a generous smile.

'Fight With India To Continue Until Plebiscite Guaranteed'

Muzaffarabad, Kashmir (AP)—Fighting against Indian forces in Kashmir will continue until a plebiscite is guaranteed, says the president of Azad (Pakistani) Kashmir.

India, he said, "needs a bit of knocking."

President Abdul Hamid told a news conference. "We shall continue the struggle as long as we have not attained our objective:" A plebiscite on accession to India or Pakistan.

India, which controls three-fifths of Kashmir, opposes a plebiscite. It claims the Himalayan border state is an integral part of India.

Abdul Hamid repeated the claim that guerrilla warfare in the Indian-ruled Kashmir Valley was being waged by Kashmiri Moslems who want to be governed by Moslem Pakistan instead of the Indians largely Hindu.

India has claimed the fighters are Pakistanis and Kashmiris trained and equipped by Pakistan who infiltrated into the valley.

Asked about reports in the Pakistani press quoting a revolutionary council as saying that the India-Pakistan cease-fire would not be observed, the president replied:

"They are quite right. India needs a bit of knocking."

He added, however, if India "would withdraw its forces, the freedom fighters would quit fighting.

"All we want is the right of self-determination."

Asked whether an independent Kashmir would be accepted in a plebiscite, the president said: "The matter of an independent Kashmir has never arisen before. Now some mischief mongers, in order to make things more complicated have begun this agitation.

"The Pakistanis say there is no doubt the Kashmiris, who are 76% Moslem, would vote for accession to Pakistan."

Violations Of Cease-Fire Are Charged

New Delhi (AP)—India and Pakistan accused each other again Thursday of violating the week-old U.N cease-fire along the frontier of the Indian state of Rajasthan.

The Indian defense ministry charged that 500 Pakistani desert rangers attacked across the frontier and they were being reinforced.

A Pakistani government broadcast said India threw two battalions against a Pakistani post in Rajasthan Thursday morning and the fighting was continuing. It said heavy casualties were inflicted on the attackers.

Hovavec Named Freedom Center Committee Head

Bob Peterson, president of the Nebraska Junior Chamber of Commerce, announced Thursday the appointment of Robert G. Hovavec of Crete as chairman of a state committee to help complete the American Freedom Center and promote the programs and activities of Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, Pa.

Jaycees nationally have undertaken the raising of funds for a $1 million George Washington building at the Freedom Center. It will be the major building in a 10-building complex designed for research, study and training in American principles.

The drive is scheduled for October and November, and Nebraska's goal is $20,000.

War Stand Explained

New Delhi (AP)—State visits of India's President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan to Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Ethiopia now will be used to explain India's position in the war with Pakistan, a government spokesman said. They had been originally scheduled only as ceremonial good will occasions.

'Fight With India To Continue Until Plebiscite Guaranteed'

Muzaffarabad, Kashmir (AP)—Fighting against Indian forces in Kashmir will continue until a plebiscite is guaranteed, says the president of Azad (Pakistan) Kashmir.

India, he said, "needs a bit of knocking."

President Abdul Hamid told a news conference, "We shall continue the struggle as long as we have not attained our objective:" A plebiscite on accession to India or Pakistan.

India, which controls three-fifths of Kashmir, opposes a plebiscite. It claims the Himalayan border state is an integral part of India.

Abdul Hamid repeated the claim that guerrilla warfare in the Indian-ruled Kashmir Valley was being waged by Kashmiri Moslems who want to be governed by Moslem Pakistan instead of the Indians, largely Hindu.

India has claimed the fighters are Pakistanis and Kashmiris trained and equipped by Pakistan who infiltrated into the valley.

Asked about reports in the Pakistani press quoting a revolutionary council as saying that the India-Pakistan cease-fire would not be observed, the president replied:

"They are quite right. India needs a bit of knocking."

He added, however, if India "would withdraw its forces, the freedom fighters would quit fighting.

"All we want is the right of self-determination."

Asked whether an independent Kashmir would be accepted in a plebiscite, the president said: "The matter of an independent Kashmir has never arisen before. Now some mischief mongers, in order to make things more complicated have begun this agitation.

"The Pakistanis say there is no doubt the Kashmiris, who are 76% Moslem, would vote for accession to Pakistan."

Violations Of Cease-Fire Are Charged

New Delhi (AP)—India and Pakistan accused each other again Thursday of violating the week-old U.N. cease-fire along the frontier of the Indian state of Rajasthan.

The Indian defense ministry charged that 500 Pakistani desert rangers attacked across the frontier and they were being reinforced.

A Pakistani government broadcast said India threw two battalions against a Pakistani post in Rajasthan Thursday morning and the fighting was continuing. It said heavy casualties were inflicted on the attackers.

McClellan Bill Aims At Confessions

Washington (AP)—Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., introduced legislation Thursday to knock down what he called dangerous, court-raised obstacles to the admission of confessions in criminal trials.

In a Senate speech he proposed that the Senate Judiciary Committee on which he serves create a special subcommittee to conduct hearings on this and other measures he said would help combat rising crime.

Decisions by the Supreme Court and some U.S. Circuit Courts have "brought confusion and disarray into the field of law enforcement," McClellan said, and declared "it is time for Congress to intervene."

His bill would provide that "a confession otherwise admissible will not be made inadmissible merely because of a delay in arraignment" of the suspect who confessed. He said it would not affect other tests ot admissibility. Any accused person still would be entitled to be told the nature of the offense he was believed to have committed, advised that his statements under questioning could be used against him, and given reasonable opportunity to retain and consult counsel.

The measure is aimed largely at the "Mallory rule" laid down by the Supreme Court in a Washington, D.C., case. The court said confessions obtained during "unnecessary delay" in arraignment could not be used in evidence.

McClellan said interpretations of unnecessary delay have been carried to dangerous extremes and the result has been that killers, rapists and other criminals have escaped punishment.

He cited as the "acme of irrationality and ultimate absurdity" a recent court of appeals decision here which reversed a manslaughter conviction because, McClellan said, the accused killer "was interviewed for five minutes (by law enforcement officers) before being taken to a magistrate for arraignment."

2 Editors Debate Pretrial Publicity

Buffalo, N.Y. (AP)—Newspapers and their readers will have to content themselves with much less information on criminal cases before trials, the annual convention of the Associated Press Managing Editors (APME) was told Thursday.

A move has begun toward "an absolute prohibition on pretrial publicity," said Thomas F. Lambert Jr. of Boston, editor-in-chief of the Journal of the American Trial Lawyer's Association.

Lambert said the object was to guarantee fair trials for defendants by preventing publication of case details that might prejudice juries. He cited confessions as an example.

On Other Hand

But Vermont Royster, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, contended that the rights of defendants would be jeopardized by denying the equal right to "full public scrutiny" of the facts.

"There are a hundred ways in which justice can be and is debauched," said Royster, editor of the Wall Street Journal.

About 500 editors and their wives are attending the five-day convention.

The debate concerning the free press and fair trials has been raging since the Warren Commission criticized news coverage of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and the arrest of Lee Harvey Oswald.

Nonsense

Royster branded as "nonsense" the commission's statement that Oswald could not have had a fair trial because of publicity given to the crime.

"This becomes an insult to the integrity of the American people," said Royster. "To say that because you have prior knowledge of the facts, you cannot be fair is someting apart from reality."

Lambert predicted that laws would be enacted and court rulings issued so that police and other law-enforcement officers would be held in contempt or court if they exceeded prescribed bounds.

"I do not expect the judicial contempt power to be applied to the press," he told the editors. "But do not take that as a license to get away with practices that are not in the interests of justice."

VIET NAM DUTY OF SON ENCOURAGES DAD TO JOIN

THEODORE J. YAFFE

Baltimore, Md. (AP) — A 17-year-old seaman is on his way to duty in Viet Nam Thursday just a day after his 42-year-old father, himself a six-year Navy veteran, was sworn into the U.S. Naval Reserves for active duty as a chief gunner's mate.

"I just feel that everybody's got to do their part. I felt it was the patriotic thing to do," said Theodore J. Yaffe, who holds the Navy Cross, the service's highest honor, for his actions as a gunner's mate aboard the destroyer Monaghan at Pearl Harbor.

"I knew my son was going to Viet Nam, and I thought it was my duty to join up again," Yaffe said in an interview. He was sworn in Tuesday night at Ft. McHenry in Baltimore.

At 17, the younger Jaffe had to have his parents' permission to enlist last June when he graduated from high school.

"He had made up his mind, and if that was what he wanted, that was it. My father didn't stop me either," the elder Yaffe said.

He saw World War II action in the Coral Sea, at Midway, Wake, the Aleutian Islands, Iwo Jima and Okinawa after the Pearl Harbor attack.

"We all thought that was the war to end wars, but we've had two more (Korea and Viet Nam) since then."

A wide variety of objects has served mankind as money. Shells, beads, cattle, and other domestic animals have been commonly used throughout the world. More unusual items include huge stones, pig tusks, and woodpecker scalps.

Back Brace Blamed For JFK's Death

Philadelphia (AP) — An assistant counsel of the Warren Commission suggested Thursday that a rigid back brace worn by President Kennedy may have inadvertently led to his death after he was struck by the assassin's first "apparently nonfatal" bullet.

Arlen Specter told a meeting of the Philadelphia County Medical Society, "One little known fact about the assassination . . . concerns the role of Kennedy's back brace." He went on:

"As you know the first bullet struck the chief executive in the back and knocked him slightly forward.

"This was apparently a nonfatal wound, and another person might have been knocked out of the line of fire. But our investigation pointed to the fact that the president's back brace kept him in erect position so that the second bullet struck him in the head."

SAFETY PATROL LIGHTS LIKED

Col. Dan Casey, head of the State Safety Patrol, Thursday labelled those new revolving red lights atop safety patrol cars a complete success, but he conceded they may result in fewer speeding tickets.

Installation of the flashing lights on all 230 patrol cars will not be completed until next week, but Col. Casey said it's already evident the lights are a safety factor.

"Before, drivers could meet our patrol cars on the highway and not even see them." Casey said. "Now, they see the cars coming and check their driving, especially to see if they're speeding

"These new lights may mean less tickets, but it also means better driving by the public. We're not out to trap anybody. We can do our best by being evident at all times "

He said the turret lights, which replaced lights on the front grill and near the rear bumper of the cars, are especially effective on the Interstate Highway.

"When a patrol car is pulled off the side of the Interstate," he said, "that flashing red light gives motorists enough time to slow down properly. We felt the old lights didn't give the patrol car or approaching drivers enough protection."

The 1965 Legislature appropriated $13,200 to install the new lights, and only the patrol's half dozen unmarked cars will not have them.

SAFETY PATROL LIGHTS LIKED

Col. Dan Casey, head of the State Safety Patrol, Thursday labelled those new revolving red lights atop safety patrol cars a complete success, but he conceded they may result in fewer speeding tickets.

Installation of the flashing lights on all 230 patrol cars will not be completed until next week, but Col. Casey said it's already evident the lights are a safety factor.

"Before, drivers could meet our patrol cars on the highway and not even see them," Casey said. "Now, they see the cars coming and check their driving, especially to see if they're speeding.

"These new lights may mean less tickets, but it also means better driving by the public. We're not out to trap anybody. We can do our best by being evident at all times."

He said the turret lights, which replaced lights on the front grill and near the rear bumper of the cars, are especially effective on the Interstate Highway.

"When a patrol car is pulled off the side of the Interstate," he said, "that flashing red light gives motorists enough time to slow down properly. We felt the old lights didn't give the patrol car or approaching drivers enough protection."

The 1965 Legislature appropriated $13,200 to install the new lights, and only the patrol's half dozen unmarked cars will not have them.

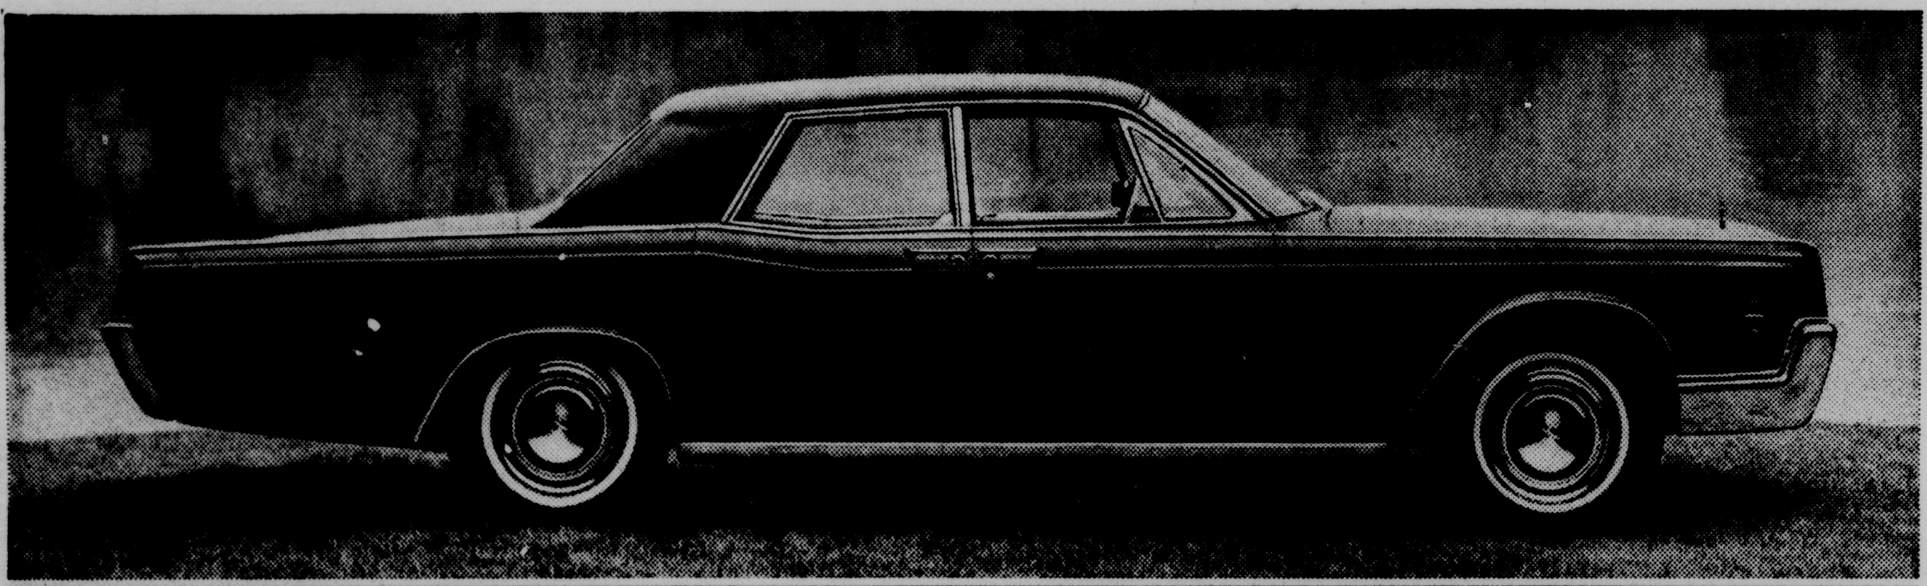
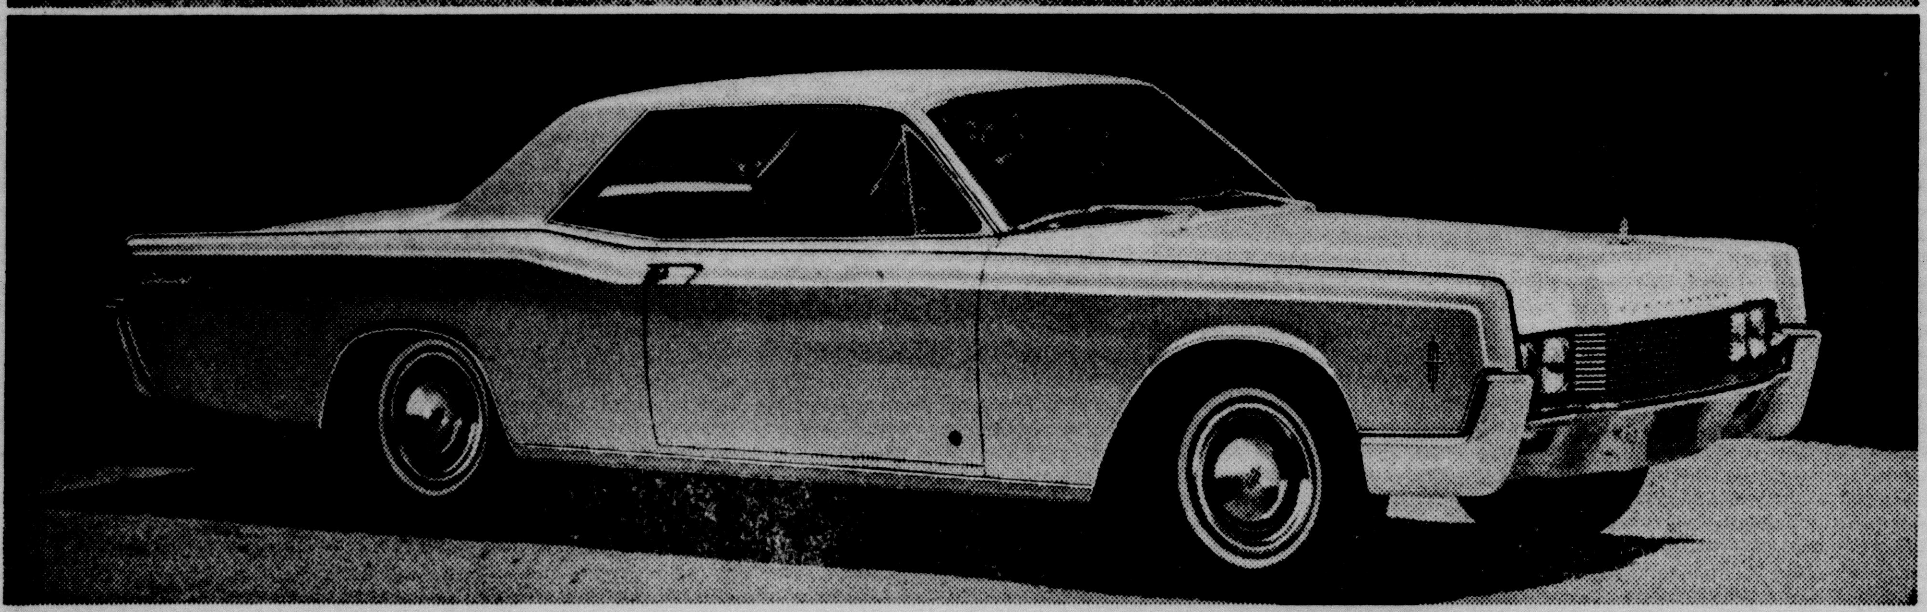
Lincoln Continental for 1966:
unmistakably new,
yet unmistakably Continental





With the newly styled sedan and four-door convertible there is a new Lincoln Continental model for 1966: the Continental coupé, making America's most distinguished motorcar available to more fine-car buyers than ever before. Discover for yourself how close you may be to owning a Lincoln Continental.

One look tells you Continental styling is new, totally new from the dynamic front grille to the graceful contours of the rear design. And yet you know that this new styling is a contemporary expression of the continuing Continental look. All three new models are distinctively Lincoln Continental. Each is built to the highest standards in the world and tested more thoroughly than any other car.

Inside Continental, you will find increased spaciousness; more head room, more shoulder room, more trunk space.

New reserves of power are yours to command in the Lincoln Continental. There is a new high-performance 462 cubic inch engine and an all-new transmission. Together, they provide an even smoother flow of power.

In addition to an impressive list of standard equipment, Continental offers innovations in luxury options. For example, there is an all-new Stereo-Sonic Tape System/AM radio. Simply put in a cartridge and four-speaker stereo sound is yours. And there is the new temperature control system that automatically maintains the temperature you select, regardless of changes in the weather outside.

Come take a closer look at Continental for 1966. Accept your Continental dealer's invitation to drive it, experience it, and to discover how easy it can be to own a Lincoln Continental.

'Deicide' Cut From Text Of Resolution Sent To Council

Vatican City (AP) — A revised declaration of the Jews — dropping the word "deicide" and for the first time specifically condemning anti-Semitism — went to the Vatican Ecumenical Council Thursday.

It brought the prospect of more battles before a final showdown vote, due in two or three weeks.

The vote is expected to be close on whether to accept the new wording or the wording used last year.

A member of the American bishops' press panel predicted there would be behind-the-scenes maneuvers, including petitions to Pope Paul VI, to the very end.

Despite the deletion of "deicide" (God killing), the text still declares that the Jewish people cannot be blamed for the crucifixion of Christ.

Some council experts, including several instrumental in drafting the latest version, said it is stronger than the old draft. The revised text deplores anti-Semitism by name, while the earlier version did not.

Other experts said they wished the word "deicide" had been retained.

Amid the intense emotion generated by council debate and by pressure group tactics surrounding the Jewish declaration, "deicide" had become something of a psychological hinge.

Want Reference

Many of the 2,200 bishops at the council, particularly among the U.S. hierarchy, wanted an unmistakable reference to end the ancient charge of deicide.

Objections came from among conservative prelates and bishops from the Middle East.

Arab nations have maintained angrily that a document on the issue by world leaders of the Roman Catholic Church would imply Vatican recognition of Israel.

GLENN'S THE LEADER OF THE BAND

Astronaut John Glenn wields the baton as he leads a Bavarian band in a beer tent at the Oktoberfest in Munich, Germany. Glenn, on a goodwill visit to Europe, went to the podium in response to the cheers of 7,000 revelers in the tent at the festival in the Bavarian capital.

FEDERAL PAY RAISE VOTED BY HOUSE

Washington (AP) — The House voted a two-step pay raise for federal employes Thursday night but refused to tack on an automatic increase for members of Congress.

The members first defeated an attempt to knock out the congressional salary increase by a nonrecord vote of 135 to 111.

But when called on to stand up and be counted on a roll call on the issue, the House backed down and stripped the provision from the bill, 238 to 140. Nekbraska Reps. Clair Callan, D, Glenn Cunningham, R, and Dave Martin, R, were in the majority on that vote.

The roll call vote on final passage of the bill was 370 to 7.

Left almost intact was a pay increase for 1.8 million federal employes that President Johnson has said would wreck his non-inflationary wage-price policy.

It calls for an across-the-board raise of 4% this year and a larger one next year based on salaries paid in private industry.

The bill now goes to the Senate, which is expected to approve a measure closer to Johnson's recommendation for a 3% raise this year.

The big fight was not over the administration's policy, however, but over the proposal for automatic pay raises for members of Congress, Cabinet officers and federal judges every time federal workers get a general increase.

Fireworks are as old as civilization. Combustibles similar to those exploded on the Fourth of July were made by ancient Chinese and Indian firemakers with charcoal and saltpeter. The later addition of sulphur produced gunpowder—long before the invention of the gun.

League To Help Cities Obtain 'Fullest' U.S. Aid

The League of Nebraska Municipalities closed out its 56th annual conference Thursday by endorsing a proposal that the league help cities and villages in the state to obtain the benefits of the poverty program and other federal aids "to the fullest extent."

League members first approved a resolution thanking William Mullen, official representative of Vice President Hubert Humphrey, for explaining all federal programs available, then passed one which outlined the league's proposed course of action.

The resolution calls for the league to "proceed immediately to expedite federal aid programs" for member municipalities by providing information on the application for and the administration of federal aid programs, by assisting member communities in overcoming delays and red tape and by establishing liaison between proper federal authorities and members of the league.

The conference also commended the last session of the Legislature for its "fair consideration" of league-sponsored bills, especially the gas tax increase bill, and for its protection of the annexation powers of cities and villages.

The slate of officers recommended by the nominating committee was approved, with Holdrege Mayor Harold Kenfield replacing Lincoln City Councilman D. L. Tyrrell as president of the executive council for 1965-66.

Also elected were Greg Struve, Norfolk administrative assistant, as first vice president and Robert Haworth, Bellevue mayor, as second vice president.

Holdrege was announced as the site for the 1966 conference.

Major Break In Paper Shutdown

New York (UPI) — The first major break came Thursday in the shutdown of six major daily newspapers when the Mailers Union and the Publishers Association of New York reached agreement on the key contract issue of job security.

The agreement opened the door to negotiation on 17 less knotty issues in the dispute that has taken priority over the original American Newspaper Guild strike against the New York Times.

Two Get $83,000 In Japanese Robbery

Hirosaki, Japan (AP) — Two men made off with about $83,000 of the funds of a local agricultural association, seizing it from a girl employe en route from a bank. They escaped by motorcycle.

The two overlooked about $50,000 in additional funds carried by an association chauffeur who accompanied the girl, Miss Mutsuko Nishizawa, 19. The money was to finance 1966 rice crops.

'Deicide' Cut From Text Of Resolution Sent To Council

Vatican City (AP) — A revised declaration of the Jews — dropping the word "deicide" and for the first time specifically condemning anti-Semitism — went to the Vatican Ecumenical Council Thursday.

It brought the prospect of more battles before a final showdown vote, due in two or three weeks.

The vote is expected to be close on whether to accept the new wording or the wording used last year.

A member of the American bishops' press panel predicted there would be behind-the-scenes maneuvers, including petitions to Pope Paul VI, to the very end.

Despite the deletion of "deicide" (God killing), the text still declares that the Jewish people cannot be blamed for the crucifixion of Christ.

Some council experts, including several instrumental in drafting the latest version, said it is stronger than the old draft. The revised text deplores anti-Semitism by name, while the earlier version did not.

Other experts said they wished the word "deicide" had been retained.

Amid the intense emotion generated by council debate and by pressure group tactics surrounding the Jewish declaration, "deicide" had become something of a psychological hinge.

Want Reference

Many of the 2,200 bishops at the council, particularly among the U.S. hierarchy, wanted an unmistakable reference to end the ancient charge of deicide.

Objections came from among conservative prelates and bishops from the Middle East.

Arab nations have maintained angrily that a document on the issue by world leaders of the Roman Catholic Church would imply Vatican recognition of Israel.

League To Help Cities Obtain 'Fullest' U.S. Aid

The League of Nebraska Municipalities closed out its 56th annual conference Thursday by endorsing a proposal that the league help cities and villages in the state to obtain the benefits of the poverty program and other federal aids "to the fullest extent."

League members first approved a resolution thanking William Mullen, official representative of Vice President Hubert Humphrey, for explaining all federal programs available, then passed one which outlined the league's proposed course of action.

The resolution calls for the league to "proceed immediately to expediate federal aid programs" for member municipalities by providing information on the application for and the administration of federal aid programs, by assisting member communities in overcoming delays and red tape and by establishing liaison between proper federal authorities and members of the league.

The conference also commended the last session of the Legislature for its "fair consideration" of league-sponsored bills, especially the gas tax increase bill, and for its protection of the annexation powers of cities and villages.

The slate of officers recommended by the nominating committee was approved, with Holdrege Mayor Harold Kenfield replacing Lincoln City Councilman D. L. Tyrrell as president of the executive council for 1965-66.

Also elected were Greg Struve, Norfolk administrative assistant, as first vice president and Robert Haworth, Bellevue mayor, as second vice president.

Holdrege was announced as the site for the 1966 conference.

Major Break In Paper Shutdown

New York (UPI) — The first major break came Thursday in the shutdown of six major daily newspapers when the Mailers Union and the Publishers Association of New York reached agreement on the key contract issue of job security.

The agreement opened the door to negotiation on 17 less knotty issues in the dispute that has taken priority over the original American Newspaper Guild strike against the New York Times.

Two Get $83,000 In Japanese Robbery

Hirosaki, Japan (AP) — Two men made off with about $83,000 of the funds of a local agricultural association, seizing it from a girl employe en route from a bank. They escaped by motorcycle.

The two overlooked about $50,000 in additional funds carried by an association chauffeur who accompanied the girl, Miss Mutsuko Nishizawa, 19. The money was to finance 1966 rice crops.

FEDERAL PAY RAISE VOTED BY HOUSE

Washington (AP) — The House voted a two-step pay raise for federal employes Thursday night but refused to tack on an automatic increase for members of Congress.

The members first defeated an attempt to knock out the congressional salary increase by a nonrecord vote of 135 to 111.

But when called on to stand up and be counted on a roll call on the issue, the House backed down and stripped the provision from the bill, 238 to 140. Nekbraska Reps. Clair Callan, D, Glenn Cunningham, R, and Dave Martin, R, were in the majority on that vote.

The roll call vote on final passage of the bill was 370 to 7.

Left almost intact was a pay increase for 1.8 million federal employes that President Johnson has said would wreck his non-inflationary wage-price policy.

It calls for an across-the-board raise of 4% this year and a larger one next year based on salaries paid in private industry.

The bill now goes to the Senate, which is expected to approve a measure closer to Johnson's recommendation for a 3% raise this year.

The big fight was not over the administration's policy, however, but over the proposal for automatic pay raises for members of Congress, Cabinet officers and federal judges every time federal workers get a general increase.

River Development Key or Lewis, Clark Trail

By GARY GRAUL
Star Staff Writer

he removal of barriers to development of the Mis- n River region is essential development of the Lewis d Clark Trail, according to report by the U.S. Depart- nt of Interior's Bureau of tdoor Recreation.

arriers included are the braska-Iowa boundary dis- e, differences in land nership laws between the o states, and pollution of river, particularly by unch manure from Omaha meat-packing plants

The Bureau's report was published Thursday as "The Lewis and Clark Trail: A Proposal for Development." The report deals with an 11-state program for development of recreational facilities and historical monuments along the route of the Lewis and Clark expedition of 1804.

The area to be developed is along both banks of the Missouri and is within one hour's driving distance of two-thirds of Nebraska's population, the reports says. Rapid growth in population, expected increase in tourist traffic along highways Interstate 80 and 29 and U.S. 73, and excellent hunting and fishing are cited as reasons for developing this particular region.

The proposal would establish a state Lewis and Clark Trail committee to coordinate federal, state, local, and private efforts in this area. Recommendations include the designation of Lewis and Clark highways along the expedition route, increased camping and boating facilities, historical monuments, a hiking and horseback trail, and tourist promotion through information centers run by the state committee.

At present 39 recreational sites exist in the area and 27 more are proposed. The existing plans include regional improvement in Indian reservation facilities by the Bureau of Indian Affairs, two proposals for development of the Missouri River by the Omaha District Corps of Engineers, and proposed state and Omaha city parks

Present historical sites include the Fort Atkinson State Park (near Ft. Calhoun), where Lewis and Clark held an important "powwow" with local Indians, the Chief Blackbird burial site (near Macy), and the Leary (near Rulo) and Walker Gilmore (near Murray) Sites of prehistorical Indian village remains.

Farm Bill Deadlock

Sorensen Writes, 'Kennedy Stood For Excellence In Indifference Era'

Washington (AP)—"He stood for excellence in an era of indifference, for hope in an era of doubt. . ."

That is the verdict rendered on the presidency of John F. Kennedy by one of the men closest to him, Theodore C. Sorensen, formerly of Lincoln Neb

Sorensen, who went to work for Kennedy when the latter was a freshman senator and later, as special White House counsel, became known as the President's "alter ego," has written a 783-page biography entitled simply, "Kennedy." The volume is now on sale in bookstores.

Parts of the massive book, which contains behind-the-scenes information that will be analyzed with interest by historians, have already been serialized in "Look" magazine and by a number of newspapers.

Although dealing with some of Kennedy's failures as well as his successes, author Sorensen acknowledges that he is not neutral. He lays stress on the theme that Kennedy's presidency was incomparable in several ways

"It will not be easy," he writes, "for historians to compare John Kennedy with his predecessors and successors, for he was unique in his imprint upon the office:

"The first to be elected at so young an age (43), the first from the Catholic faith, the first to take office in an age of mutual nuclear capabilities, the first to reach literally for the moon and beyond, the first to prevent a new recession of inflation in modern peacetime, the first to announce that all racial segregation and discrimination must be abolished as a matter of right, the first to meet our adversaries in a potentially nuclear confrontation, the first to take a solid step toward nuclear arms control—and the first to die at so young an age "

JFK 'Evolution'

Sorensen says the Kennedy career was marked by much growth, or what the late President called "evolution."

For example, Sorensen notes that as a congressman and successful candidate for the Senate, Kennedy "knew and cared comparatively little about the problems of civil rights and civil liberties "

But Sorensen adds

"The senator who in 1954 paid little attention to the historic Supreme Court desegregation decision became less than a decade later the first President in history to invoke all the executive, legislative and moral powers of his office on behalf of equal rights."

And, the author continues, "The young congressman who voted for the McCarran Internal Security Act, and who was—by his own admission—insufficiently sensitive to the ruin of reputations by McCarthyism, became the president who awarded the Enrico Fermi prize to the much abused J. Robert Oppenheimer, pardoned communist leader Junius Scales, halted the postal interception of communist propaganda, welcomed the controversial Linus Pauling into the White House, and appointed to his administration several of McCarthy's favorite targets."

In the field of foreign affairs, Sorensen notes that Cuba was the site of Kennedy's greatest failure and greatest success—the Bay of Pigs defeat, and the 1962 confrontation which led the Soviet Union to withdraw medium and intermediate range missiles for the island.

If Kennedy had lived to win and complete a second term, what would he have done then? Nobody knows, Sorensen says, but he speculates:

"Necessarily on the list of possibilities was a return to his first love, the United States Senate. His wife, remembering his contentment in that body, once asked Ted Kennedy at dinner whether he would give back Jack's seat when the time came, and Teddy loyally said that of course he would. But the President was upset, and sternly told Jacqueline later never to do that to Teddy and not to worry about his future."

Far Eastern Visitors Call On Sorensen

An 18-member goodwill delegation from the Japanese city of Shizuoka, Omaha's sister city of the Far East, paid Lt. Gov. Philip C. Sorensen a visit Thursday.

The lieutenant governor, pinch hitting for Gov. Frank Morrison who was out of town, presented admiralships in the mythical Nebraska Navy to the 18 visitors. Sorensen called the admiralships "the highest honor Nebraska can bestow upon her citizens and visitors."

Tetsuro Esaki, vice president of the Shizuoka Chamber of Commerce and leader of the delegation, asked that the governor do everything possible to provide "closer and closer relationships" between Nebraska and the Japanese city.

He also invited Sorensen to visit Japan.

The distaff members of the delegation—Mrs. Fujie Suzuki, Mrs. Aya Sawano, Mrs. Kikuto Ikenoya and Mrs. Mitsue Suyama — were dressed in colorful kimonos for the visit in the governor's office in the State Capitol here.

Other members of the delegation included Masao Ishikawa, Shigeru Suzuki, Ryohei Ishikawa, Shinichiro Hongo, Moriichi Koyama, Taigaku Masuda, Kunio Saito, Giroku Sawai, Seiichi Matsushima, Yasuo Higashiura, Toshinao Takemori, Kunisada Takeuchi and Masayasu Honda.

The group's tour of Nebraska was scheduled to end Friday.

Socialist Issues Call To End War

Providence, R.I. (AP)— Norman Thomas, 80-year-old leader of the Socialist Party in America, called for a cease fire in Viet Nam and an increased effort to solve such domestic problems as racial discrimination and poverty.

He told a freshman convocation at Brown University, "We must find a way of coexistence. War is a solution to nothing. War is now impossible if we wish to live."

Bradshaw (AP) — Warren Otto, Bradshaw farmer, announced Thursday he will file for the Nebraska Legislature from the 24th District, currently represented by Sen Stanley Matzke of Milford.

Otto, 44, is a past vice president of the Nebraska Feed Grain Growers Association and a national director of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association

He said he will make the race whether Matzke seeks re-election or not

Liquor Revenue Collections Up

The State Liquor Control Commission reported Thursday its September receipts from taxes and fees totaled $440,728, an increase of about $58,000 from September, 1964, collections.

The increase was due primarily to a hike in the beer tax approved by the 1965 Legislature, the commission said.

Alabama Rain Hits 15 Inches

Mobile, Ala (AP) — Mobile's greatest rainfall in history—15 inches in 15 hours—fell on the city Thursday and paralyzed the area

The Weather Bureau said the torrent was measured during a period beginning at midnight. Eight inches came in a deluge in a 3½-hour period between 5 a.m. and 8:30 a.m., CST. Twelve inches fell between midnight and noon.

The previous record rainfall for Mobile was 13.36 inches on April 13, 1955. That one, over a period of 24 hours, has been described as one of the greatest in the United States.

Side Effect

The cloudburst was a side effect of tropical storm Debbie, which broke up in the Gulf of Mexico yesterday.

The rains built up during the night into a virtual cloudburst during the early-morning rush hour. It spawned the worst traffic jam in the history of the Alabama port city

Hundreds of cars were flooded. Many were abandoned with the water eventually reaching the top of the seats.

Some of the more stubborn motorists made it to work in three to four hours as compared to a normal 20 minutes or so. Others parked their cars and walked miles to reach their jobs. Some turned back when they reached deeper pools in the streets, creating a two-way jam.

Police, Guard

Police and small units of National Guardsmen stood by to aid in evacuation of homes in low-lying areas.

The Red Cross said it is caring for more than 200 persons who were forced from their homes by high water.

The low side of the divided four-lane Mobile Bay causeway was covered with water, halting traffic on that side of the main artery. Motorists were able to proceed over the two-lane north side.

Mail deliveries were canceled. Most businesses, including department stores, remained closed, with neither clerks nor customers

Only skeleton crews were kept at the city hall, the county courthouse and the federal building Court cases were postponed

Marine Kills Woman, Baby

Wichita, Kan. (UPI) — A young Marine who wrote that Viet Nam is "worse than hell," said he had to kill a woman and a baby.

"For the first time," said lance Cpl. Ronnie W. Wilson, "I felt really sick to my stomach."

But Mrs. William I. Wilson said her son, an ex-football guard and varsity wrestler at Wichita East High School, "feels it necessary to be there."

"He's proud of being in the Marines and of doing his job," she said.

In a letter to his mother, Wilson wrote:

"There are so many Cong here that in three days we captured 12 and killed 33.

"Mom, I had to kill a woman and a baby. We were sweeping the jungle and all of a sudden the cong opened upon us. People were falling and Cong were clipping 81 mortars on us. The lieutenant had us move out toward the firing. We killed eight Cong and about 30 got away.

"Anyway we were searching the dead Cong when a wife of the one I was checking ran out of a cave and picked up a sub-machine gun and started firing at us.

"I shot her and my rifle is automatic, so before I knew it I had shot about six rounds. Four of them hit her and the others went in the cave and must have bounced off the rock wall and hit the baby. The baby was about two months old. He didn't feel any pain, I'm sure .

"I swear to God this place is worse than hell. Why must I kill women and kids? Who knows who's right?

"They think they are and we think we are . . . I wish to God this was over.

Wallace Wants To Succeed Self

Montgomery, Ala (AP)—Gov George Wallace said Thursday night he will run for governor again next year—and maybe for president in 1968—if the Alabama legislature gives him the chance

With the battle cry, "let the people decide," Wallace brought the legislature back in special session to consider a constitutional amendment to let him succeed himself for one more term. The constitution now prohibits it.

If the amendment is approved by the legislature and ratified by the people, the governor declared in a prepared address to the jointly assembled house and Senate, "I shall run for the office of governor in 1966"

And, recalling his speaking campaign across the nation last year and his campaign for president, Wallace said in the statewide television address, "If you send me again . . . I will go again"

"The liberals say George Wallace wants to be president," he continued. "What is wrong with that? An Alabamian is as good as most and better than some. I think an Alabamian would make just as good a president . . . and maybe a little better. . . . than someone from New York . . . and maybe from Texas."

Wallace claimed the votes to pass a succession amendment through the house and senate.

CHOSE candlelight service

The wedding of Miss Marcia Seng, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Willard G. Seng of Oskosh, and George S. Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murdo Stewart of Denton, took place Sunday evening, Sept. 12, at the Oshkosh Methodist Church. The candlelight service was solemnized at 7 o'clock by the Rev. David T. Gustafson, and Miss Maxine Romig, organist, played the wedding music and accompanied Ted Peeks, vocal soloist.

Mrs. William Roussan of Lincoln, the matron of honor, and the bridesmaid, Miss Nancy Schenfeld, Greeley, Colo., wore Empire frocks fashioned with moss green bodices and slim skirts of beige crepe. They carried cascades of white chrysanthemums and oak leaf foliage.

Serving as best man was Ken Stewart of Denton, and the ushers were Jim Seng, Omaha; and Richard Seng, Lincoln.

White silk organza over taffeta was chosen by the bride for her wedding gown. The fitted basque, designed with a bateau neckline and long sleeves, was patterned with lace applique and pearl embroidery, which was repeated in the trim of the bouffant skirt and Watteau train, extending to chapel length. A pillbox cap of Venise lace dotted with pearls held her illusion veil, and she carried a white Bible clustered with white and pale yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart will live in Lincoln, where they are employed. The bride has attended the Lincoln School of Commerce.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This isn't exactly a problem, but here goes: I have an extra-sensitive sense of smell. Whenever I come into a room where there is a dog owner, I can SMELL it. No matter how clean people keep themselves, I know immediately when I get close to them that they have a dog at home. Please don't think this is a slam against dogs or dog owners because some of my best friends have dogs. although I, myself, have never had one. When I mention this to some dog owners, they think I am imagining things, and I am sure there are some who think there is something wrong with me. Maybe there is, but so far I have never guessed wrong. If you use this letter, sign me . . .

"SNIFFY"

DEAR "SNIFFY": If what you say is true (and it could be), I advise you to keep it to yourself. Dog owners will be more insulted than flattered to be detected by your nose. And friends are worth more than a few scents!

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a husband who runs around with other women and, when confronted by his wife, he always says, "Well, I always come home to you, don't I, Honey?"

What is this supposed to prove?

TENNESSEE SAP

DEAR SAP: It proves that your husband wants to have his cake and eat it, too—with your blessing.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a young lady of 20. I work in an office with seven men, who are all married. I am single. The nearest eating place is four blocks away, so sometimes when it rains several of the men have asked me to have lunch with them as I don't have a car. I have always declined because I don't think it's right for a single girl to lunch with married men. And, besides, I don't want any of the wives to get the wrong idea. I would like your opinion on this.

CAREFUL

DEAR CAREFUL: There's safety in numbers. Go with a group, but not with one man alone and you won't have to worry about what his wife will think.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CONCERNED PARENTS: Do not interfere. Young people have their own special way of measuring affection. I have been told of a girl, 12, who came home all starry-eyed and informed her parents that a certain boy "liked" her. When asked how she knew, she said, "Because every time he pases me in the hall he kicks me!" Her father said that the day she comes home with two black eyes he would know she is really "in love." They didn't interfere and the girl got over this boy and a dozen others before finding "the one."

1. Played correctly, you are certain of making the slam regardless of how the adverse cards are divided unless the opening lead is ruffed by South. The key card in this problem, composed by Paul Lukacs, is the six of spades.

Win the diamond with the king, extract the missing trumps, cash the ace of diamonds and then lead the jack of spades.

If North plays low and the jack loses to the king, you make the contract whatever South returns. South must return either a spade or a heart, ending the hand immediately, or else return a diamond, which gives you a ruff and a discard.

If North covers the jack of spades with the king, win it with the ace, return to your hand with a trump, and lead another spade. If West produces the four or five, or shows out, you play the six, thus endplaying South, while if West produces the seven or eight, you cover with the nine, again nullifying the defense whatever the lie of the cards.

2. Win the spade with the ace, cross to dummy with a diamond, lead the queen of clubs and finesse. If the finesse loses, ten tricks become certain. If the finesse wins, repeat it. This method of play guarantees the contract even though a defender shows out on the first or second club lead.

If you were to duck the king of spades—a play quite often made in similar circumstances—you would be courting disaster and might well go down.

For example, suppose North then shifted to the jack of hearts and South overtook the jack with the queen. You would then be in danger of defeat whether you took the heart or not, and could easily lose the contract if it turned out that North had the king of clubs.

The only way to insure the contract is by winning the opening lead. This relatively simple play guards against every possible distribution of the North-South cards.

Upset Season Under Way

Normally it takes the longshot bettors until about the third week of the season before the upset picks start paying off, but the 1965 football season is a couple of weeks ahead of schedule.

As one press box wag suggested upon hearing the score of the Georgia upset of Alabama two weeks ago while viewing the Nebraska-TCU game, "The football season is under way."

Last week's game solidified this thought. For instance, who would have guessed that Texas Christian, a 34-14 loser to Nebraska, would come back with a 7-3 decision over Florida State?

Or did you get cheated out of the football parley when Miami, Fla., a 7-3 loser the first week to Southern Methodist, came back to blank Eastern power Syracuse, 24-0?

Worse yet, how about SMU, which fell flat on its face after the win over Miami and lost a 42-0 game to Illinois, no Big 10 power itself.

Even Nebraska fans' thoughts have been upset because their mighty warriors have been scored upon in each of the first two games. And they likely are going to be scored on again before the season ends.

History may mean very little in collegiate athletics since players change every three years, but for what it's worth, you might consider the following before expecting a whopping NU victory Saturday against Iowa State:

The Huskers, although winning the last four games from the Cyclones, haven't beaten them by more than 14 points since the 39-14 game in 1955. The last time NU shut out the Cyclones was by 16-0 in 1952.

Not expecting any shutouts or any overwhelming victories this week at Memorial Stadium, call it: NEBRASKA 28, Iowa State 14.

Other games:

The Big Eight

COLORADO 14, Kansas State 10. . . The Wildcats, who boasted of joining the Big Eight a year ago when they finished out of the cellar for the first time in many years, are going to wind up right back in the dark surroundings.

MISSOURI 14, Minnesota 13 . . The Tigers and Huskers are about the only teams doing anything for Big Eight prestige, but it'll be a squeaker in World Series land

CALIFORNIA 13, Kansas 7 . . . The Jayhawk State has little to offer in the way of football this season.

TULSA 20, Oklahoma State 14 . . . After losing two in a row, the O-State gridders may begin thinking the Cutchin system isn't worth the effort.

OKLAHOMA 15, Navy 13 . . . You wouldn't think the Sooners could lose two straight to Eastern opposition.

The East

BOSTON COLLEGE 20, Army 14 . . . PRINCETON 26, Columbia 14 . . . CONNECTICUT 20, Rutgers 13 . . . HARVARD 21, Tufts 0 . . . DARTMOUTH 27, Holy Cross 14 . . . CORNELL 7, Lehigh 0 . . . BUFFALO 13, Massachusetts 12 . . . UCLA 10, Penn State 0 . . . PENNSYLVANIA 12, Brown 6 . . . BOSTON U. 13, Temple 0 . . . COLGATE 13, Yale 7.

Player-Led Golfing Duo Takes Lead

Madrid (AP) — Gary Player, reigning United States Open champion and his South African teammate, Harold Henning, took a one-stroke lead at the end of the first round of the Canada Cup golf team championship Thursday with Yanks Tony Lema and Jack Nicklaus trailing by five shots.

Player and Henning totaled 142 for the first 18 holes of the 72-hole tournament ending Sunday over the 7,096-yard, par 36-36-72 Club de Campo Course on the outskirts of Madrid.

Thirty-seven teams were aiming at the championship won the last two years by Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer for the United States.

Chen Ching-Po of Nationalist China and Donald Swaelens of Belgium set the pace in the individual championship with three-under-par 69s over a lay-out still soft after three days of rain.

Player and Henning wound up the first day two under par, Player shooting a 70 and Henning matching par.

Drysdale Beats Milwaukee, 4-0

. . . GIANTS WHIP REDS, 5-3

By Associated Press

The Los Angeles Dodgers moved a step nearer the National League pennant with a 4-0 victory over Milwaukee Thursday night for the 13th straight triumph.

This maintained the Dodgers' two-game lead over the San Francisco Giants, who had defeated Cincinnati 5-3 in a day game on a ninth-inning two-run homer by pinch hitter Orlando Cepeda.

Hal Lanier led off with a single for the Giants but was forced at second by Tom Haller. Cepeda, who had missed much of the season with a bad knee, then batted for Masonori Murakami and hit his first homer of the year over the left-center field fence.

The blow came off Joe Nuxhall, who had scattered nine hits and had not walked a man before the inning. The Cincinnati left-hander suffered his fourth defeat against 11 victories.

Jim Hart, who had homered earlier, doubled with two out in the eighth inning and came home on Jesus Alou's single, knotting the game at 3-3.

The Reds had gone ahead for the first time in the top of the inning when Frank Robinson blasted a homer off Murakami, who took over for Juan Marichal, who was hurt in the seventh and taken to a hospital for Xrays.

Drysdale, gaining his 23rd victory over-all and his fifth in a row, for the Dodgers, retired the first 14 Braves. But then with two out in the fifth Felipe Alou singled to left field.

The Dodgers' big right-hander, who has lost 12, set down seven more Braves before Joe Torre led off the eighth with a single.

After Alou struck out, Mike de la Hoz doubled Torre to third. But Drysdale toughened getting pinch hitter Gene Oliver on a line drive to second baseman Jim Lefebvre and striking out pinch hitter Denis Menke.

Drysdale also contributed two singles to the Los Angeles attack, driving in the second run and raising his average to .302, making him the only Dodger batting better than .300.

The Dodgers scored their first three runs against Hank Fischer, 8-9, who finally was batted out in the fifth inning.

St. Louis crushed Houston 19-8 in the only other NL game scheduled. The champion Minnesota Twins, aided by a grand slam homer by Zoilo Versalles, trimmed Baltimore 7-6 in the only American League game scheduled.

Bill's father, Walt, is head of the Stanton County Beef Club, which has contributed 25 head of cattle to the Cornhusker training table.

The Stanton High School band is scheduled to participate in the Band Day festivities.

Doane Hosts Annual Cross Country Meet

Crete — Forty-five high school and college teams have been invited to participate in the annual Doane Invitational cross country meet Saturday.

Four Newcomers To See Action

. . . AS NEBRASKA OPENS BIG EIGHT COMPETITION

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Four players who have seen little action in the first two Nebraska wins may get some added playing time in as the Huskers open the Big Eight campaign against Iowa State Saturday at Memorial Stadium.

"We would like to get a look at these boys in game conditions," NU coach Bob Devaney noted. "And we probably will Saturday.

"We think they are deserving through their efforts in practice and we feel they have come along well enough so that they can hold their own."

The Husker coach hopes to develop some depth as the conference season opens. "We haven't really looked at many ball players beyond the two platoons," he points out.

Friday Plans

Husker left halfback Ron Kirkland has recovered from the flu which sidelined him for a day. With Kirkland and defensive tackle John Strohmyer both pronounced fit, the Huskers will go into the Iowa State game in top physical shape.

Nebraska plans a short workout today to loosen up for the Iowa State game.

Iowa State will arrive in Lincoln at 5:30 p.m. today and will be quartered at the Lincoln Hotel. Cyclone coach Clay Stapleton plans no workout for his squad after arriving in Lincoln.

Nebraska Wesleyan Seeking Third Win

. . . PLAINSMEN MENTOR CALLS SQUAD IN TOP SHAPE

Nebraska Wesleyan will be after its third win of the season and fifth consecutive victory tonight against St. Mary of the Plains.

"They have a new coach, and lots of new personnel and they're hungry for a few wins," Westover declared.

St. Mary has dropped two contests this fall, the latest a 21-7 loss to Colorado College, NWU's foe next week.

"Our reports indicate they have a fine freshman quarterback in (Bily) Lafreniere," Westover said. "And they have some pretty good size up front, too."

As for the Plainsmen, Westover pronounced the squad fit except for two exceptions. Jim Stych, reserve halfback, will be out with two cracked ribs, and Dennis Gordon, defensive safety, suffered a sprained wrist during the week's rough and tumble scrimmage sessions.

Westover said Gordon should be able to play. "I expect a better performance this week," Westy predicted. "The kids have really been hitting in practice. We've made some progress this week."

Westover has been working on passing, downfield blocking and defense this week to keep the Plainsman record going.

The Plainsmen win streak dates to last year's victories at the end of the season over Hastings and Concordia. Victims this year have been Midland (19-6) and Dana (27-7).

"If our backs hadn't run good (against Dana), we'd have been in trouble," Westy said. "Willy (Weisbrook) did a good job for us."

Weisbrook will get a starting role at fullback. He's averaging nearly nine yards a carry for the two games.

Offensive line positions will remain the same, but some changes may be made in the defensive team, Westover said.

—AS LINKS, ROCKETS ENTER TRANS-NEBRASKA RACE—

Passing May Be Deciding Factor In Today's Game

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Three-game passing statistics for Northeast (11-31) and Lincoln High (0-5) aren't apt to send opponents scurrying to the bomb shelter, but the overhead battle is likely to settle the outcome in the intra-city clash at Seacrest Field Friday night.

The early success of both the Links (2-0-1) and Rockets (2-1) can be credited primarily to good running attacks and defensive play which has been consistent under prsesure situations.

But it figures to take something more than this to win the game which will probably bump one team from title contention in the inaugural Trans-Nebraska race.

"We're really a better passing team than the figures show," says Northeast coach Art Bauer, whose Rockets will be trying to regroup after last week's upset loss at North Platte.

"We've had several passes dropped, including two which could have been touchdowns at North Platte," he adds.

Touchdown tosses of 34 and 49 yards by quarterback Jack Ketterer in opening wins over Fremont and Southeast indicate that there is some potential in the overhead route.

The Rockets, working on a string of four straight wins over the Links, are expected to get full-time duty from veteran halfback Doug Campbell this week and could get some offensive help from guard Bob Luedtke, who has been sidelined with an injury.

"The kids have been more determined this week and have been hitting a lot harder," Bauer notes.

The same optimism exists in the Lincoln High camp.

"We're ready for a good game," Links' coach Andy Loehr indicates. "We just have to put together four quarters instead of a good first quarter and then spots here and there," he observes.

"We're really the only ones who know what we can do with our passing game," he says, noting that ends Steve Hanneman and Lynn Dance are capable receivers and that he has three quarterbacks — Reuben Worster, Jack Galusha and Steve McKelvey — who are adequate passers.

"We can throw the ball and probably should have thrown more in our first three games but when we can move the ball on the ground we don't worry about passing," he adds.

Bauer, who watched the Links edge Bishop Ryan while throwing only two passes last week, isn't taking the Lincoln High passing attack lightly.

"It wouldn't surprise me a bit if they throw more against us," he says.

Upset Season Under Way

Normally it takes the longshot bettors until about the third week of the season before the upset picks start paying off, but the 1965 football season is a couple of weeks ahead of schedule.

As one press box wag suggested upon hearing the score of the Georgia upset of Alabama two weeks ago while viewing the Nebraska-TCU game, "The football season is under way."

Last week's game solidified this thought. For instance, who would have guessed that Texas Christian, a 34-14 loser to Nebraska, would come back with a 7-3 decision over Florida State?

Or did you get cheated out of the football parley when Miami, Fla., a 7-3 loser the first week to Southern Methodist, came back to blank Eastern power Syracuse, 24-0?

Worse yet, how about SMU, which fell flat on its face after the win over Miami and lost a 42-0 game to Illinois, no Big 10 power itself.

Even Nebraska fans' thoughts have been upset because their mighty warriors have been scored upon in each of the first two games. And they likely are going to be scored on again before the season ends.

History may mean very little in collegiate athletics since players change every three years, but for what it's worth, you might consider the following before expecting a whopping NU victory Saturday against Iowa State:

The Huskers, although winning the last four games from the Cyclones, haven't beaten them by more than 14 points since the 39-14 game in 1955. The last time NU shut out the Cyclones was by 16-0 in 1952.

Not expecting any shutouts or any overwhelming victories this week at Memorial Stadium, call it: NEBRASKA 28, Iowa State 14.

Nebraska Wesleyan will be after its third win of the season and fifth consecutive victory tonight against St. Mary of the Plains.

"They have a new coach, and lots of new personnel and they're hungry for a few wins," Westover declared.

St. Mary has dropped two contests this fall, the latest a 21-7 loss to Colorado College, NWU's foe next week.

"Our reports indicate they have a fine freshman quarterback in (Bily) Lafreniere," Westover said. "And they have some pretty good size up front, too."

As for the Plainsmen, Westover pronounced the squad fit except for two exceptions. Jim Stych, reserve halfback, will be out with two cracked ribs, and Dennis Gordon, defensive safety, suffered a sprained wrist during the week's rough and tumble scrimmage sessions.

Westover said Gordon should be able to play. "I expect a better performance this week," Westy predicted. "The kids have really been hitting in practice. We've made some progress this week."

Westover has been working on passing, downfield blocking and defense this week to keep the Plainsman record going.

The Plainsmen win streak dates to last year's victories at the end of the season over Hastings and Concordia. Victims this year have been Midland (19-6) and Dana (27-7).

"If our backs hadn't run good (against Dana), we'd have been in trouble," Westy said. "Willy (Weisbrook) did a good job for us."

Weisbrook will get a starting role at fullback. He's averaging nearly nine yards a carry for the two games.

Offensive line positions will remain the same, but some changes may be made in the defensive team, Westover said.

—AS LINKS, ROCKETS ENTER TRANS-NEBRASKA RACE—

Passing May Be Deciding Factor In Today's Game

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Three-game passing statistics for Northeast (11-31) and Lincoln High (0-5) aren't apt to send opponents scurrying to the bomb shelter, but the overhead battle is likely to settle the outcome in the intra-city clash at Seacrest Field Friday night.

The early success of both the Links (2-0-1) and Rockets (2-1) can be credited primarily to good running attacks and defensive play which has been consistent under prsesure situations.

But it figures to take something more than this to win the game which will probably bump one team from title contention in the inaugural Trans-Nebraska race.

"We're really a better passing team than the figures show," says Northeast coach Art Bauer, whose Rockets will be trying to regroup after last week's upset loss at North Platte.

"We've had several passes dropped, including two which could have been touchdowns at North Platte," he adds.

Touchdown tosses of 34 and 49 yards by quarterback Jack Ketterer in opening wins over Fremont and Southeast indicate that there is some potential in the overhead route.

The Rockets, working on a string of four straight wins over the Links, are expected to get full-time duty from veteran halfback Doug Campbell this week and could get some offensive help from guard Bob Luedtke, who has been sidelined with an injury.

"The kids have been more determined this week and have been hitting a lot harder," Bauer notes.

The same optimism exists in the Lincoln High camp.

"We're ready for a good game," Links' coach Andy Loehr indicates. "We just have to put together four quarters instead of a good first quarter and then spots here and there," he observes.

The zero yardage in the air by the Links doesn't concern Loehr.

"We're really the only ones who know what we can do with our passing game," he says, noting that ends Steve Hanneman and Lynn Dance are capable receivers and that he has three quarterbacks — Reuben Worster, Jack Galusha and Steve McKelvey — who are adequate passers.

"We can throw the ball and probably should have thrown more in our first three games but when we can move the ball on the ground we don't worry about passing," he adds.

Bauer, who watched the Links edge Bishop Ryan while throwing only two passes last week, isn't taking the Lincoln High passing attack lightly.

"It wouldn't surprise me a bit if they throw more against us," he says.

Positive Mental Attitude At ISU

. . . SAYS COACH STAPLETON

Ames (AP)—Coach Clay Stapleton Thursday said Iowa State's football team has a "positive mental attitude" for its Big Eight opener against No. 3 ranked Nebraska at Lincoln Saturday.

"The kids have worked hard," he said. "And we are ready."

The Cyclones and the Cornhuskers are the only unbeaten. Untied teams in the conference.

Defensive coach Bob Ward said sophomore linebacker Dave Mayberry would start in place of junior Ron Halda, but added that the two defenders, along with linebackers and co-captain Jim Wipert would see about equal action.

Oklahoma

Norman, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma worked out an hour Thursday on both defense and offense as it prepared for the football game here Saturday with Navy. No new injuries were reported and there were no personnel shifts.

Oklahoma State

"We'll have to play better than we have been playing," he added.

The Cowboys are host to Tulsa Saturday in the windup of their ancient series.

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kan., (AP)—Coach Doug Weaver named three players to serve as captains of the Kansas State football team against Colorado here Saturday.

Colorado

Boulder, Colo. (AP) — Colorado worked on its kicking game in a light workout Thursday. The Buffaloes open their Big Eight conference season at Kansas State Saturday.

Coach Eddie Crowder announced a 40-man traveling squad. Dan Kelly, the No. 2 sophomore quarterback, is the only one who won't suit up. He has a foot injury. Colorado will be playing its first game without defensive end Ray LeMasters who hurt his knee in last week's game and is lost for the season.

Missouri

Marichal Out With Fracture; Roseboro Sues

San Francisco (AP)—Pitcher Juan Marichal got a double dose of trouble Thursday. He suffered a hairline fracture in the last joint of his left thumb during the seventh inning and minutes later was served with papers in a $110,000 damage suit brought by Los Angeles Dodger catcher John Roseboro.

Marichal, the right-handed ace of the San Francisco pitching staff, came into the Giants' clubhouse after colliding with Cincinnati shortstop Leo Cardenas and was served with the papers in the nearly empty room.

San Francisco trainer Leo Hughes said Marichal suffered a dislocated left thumb that was popped back into place at a hospital. Hughes said Marichal could pitch in the last game of the season on Sunday if needed.

Positive Mental Attitude At ISU

. . . SAYS COACH STAPLETON

Ames (AP)—Coach Clay Stapleton Thursday said Iowa State's football team has a "positive mental attitude" for its Big Eight opener against No. 3 ranked Nebraska at Lincoln Saturday.

"The kids have worked hard," he said. "And we are ready."

The Cyclones and the Cornhuskers are the only unbeaten, Untied teams in the conference.

Defensive coach Bob Ward said sophomore linebacker Dave Mayberry would start in place of junior Ron Halda, but added that the two defenders, along with linebackers and co-captain Jim Wipert would see about equal action.

Oklahoma

Norman, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma worked out an hour Thursday on both defense and offense as it prepared for the football game here Saturday with Navy. No new injuries were reported and there were no personnel shifts.

Oklahoma State

"We'll have to play better than we have been playing," he added.

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kan., (AP)—Coach Doug Weaver named three players to serve as captains of the Kansas State football team against Colorado here Saturday.

Colorado

Boulder, Colo. (AP) — Colorado worked on its kicking game in a light workout Thursday. The Buffaloes open their Big Eight conference season at Kansas State Saturday.

Coach Eddie Crowder announced a 40-man traveling squad. Dan Kelly, the No. 2 sophomore quarterback, is the only one who won't suit up. He has a foot injury. Colorado will be playing its first game without defensive end Ray LeMasters who hurt his knee in last week's game and is lost for the season.

Missouri

Marichal Out With Fracture; Roseboro Sues

San Francisco (AP)—Pitcher Juan Marichal got a double dose of trouble Thursday. He suffered a hairline fracture in the last joint of his left thumb during the seventh inning and minutes later was served with papers in a $110,000 damage suit brought by Los Angeles Dodger catcher John Roseboro.

Marichal, the right-handed ace of the San Francisco pitching staff, came into the Giants' clubhouse after colliding with Cincinnati shortstop Leo Cardenas and was served with the papers in the nearly empty room.

San Francisco trainer Leo Hughes said Marichal suffered a dislocated left thumb that was popped back into place at a hospital. Hughes said Marichal could pitch in the last game of the season on Sunday if needed.

Nearly 25 High Schools

. . . ARE RE-CLASSIFIED BY STATE

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Nearly 25 Nebraska high schools will have new athletic classifications this year according to preliminary figures released by C. C. Thompson, secretary of the Nebraska School Activities Assn.

Newcomers in the Class A ranks include Bishop Rummel, a new Omaha parochial school and Holdrege, which had male enrollment jump from 268 to 291 to go ahead of Gering and Blair and climb from Class B to Class A.

Among those dropping from Class B to Class C are Laurel, Loup City and West Point—three schools which currently have unbeaten football teams.

Those schools which should find the drop from Class C to Class D helpful in athletics are Potter, which owns a long football winning streak, and Overton, currently the eight-man football ratings leader and anticipated to be a strong basketball team.

Classification is based on boy enrollment in grades 9-12. In cases of similar figures such as the 116 students registered at both Laurel and Imperial, the three-year average enrollment figure is used to determine classification:

Class A — Holdrege (from B).

From the pioneer in high-horsepower outboards comes a new champion—the new 110-hp Merc 1100! What's it like to ride herd on 110 horses? Point the bow at the farthest point on the lake, crack the throttle—and that lake's suddenly smaller! The Merc 1100 is the great new successor to the Merc 1000—holder of more international performance and endurance records than any other outboard ever built!

From the sleek new Merc 1100—and the exciting new 95-hp Merc 950—all the way down the line to the trim 3.9-hp Merc 39, these new Mercurys are quiet—quietest outboards you can buy!

Also new for '66: now you can safely use a 50:1 gasoline-oil ratio with our new Formula 50 Super Outboard Motor Oil. Polar-Gap spark plugs—developed by Kiekhaefer during World War II for costly military engines, now refined and produced exclusively for both six-cylinder Mercurys. Polar-Gap plugs cut fuel consumption, last more than twice as long as ordinary plugs, even on highly leaded fuel. Two new powerheads, three other models redesigned from top to prop—and much, much more.

Mercurys are designed by the industry's top engineers . . . then boat-tested under "customer environment" conditions around the clock and around the calendar at Mercury's Lake X—the world's finest marine proving grounds. The result of this unique program is cumulative: each year's Mercurys benefit from the millions of test miles that went before. Result: Mercury '66—finest outboards ever built—with the widest range of horsepower ever offered in the outboard field: 3.9, 6, 9.8, 20, 35, 50, 65, 95, and 110 hp.

Nearly 25 High Schools

. . . ARE RE-CLASSIFIED BY STATE

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Nearly 25 Nebraska high schools will have new athletic classifications this year according to preliminary figures released by C. C. Thompson, secretary of the Nebraska School Activities Assn.

Newcomers in the Class A ranks include Bishop Rummel, a new Omaha parochial school and Holdrege, which had male enrollment jump from 268 to 291 to go ahead of Gering and Blair and climb from Class B to Class A.

Bryan, another new Omaha school, will begin its athletic competition in Class B.

Among those dropping from Class B to Class C are Laurel, Loup City and West Point—three schools which currently have unbeaten football teams.

Those schools which should find the drop from Class C to Class D helpful in athletics are Potter, which owns a long football winning streak, and Overton, currently the eight-man football ratings leader and anticipated to be a strong basketball team.

Classification is based on boy enrollment in grades 9-12. In cases of similar figures such as the 116 students registered at both Laurel and Imperial, the three-year average enrollment figure is used to determine classification:

Class A — Holdrege (from B).

Lockheed Wins Contract For Big Transport Plane

Washington (AP) — Lockheed Aircraft Corp. won the hotly contested Defense Department contract Thursday to develop and produce the nation's largest transport airplane, the C5A.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced the contract award and said the development cost and initial production order of 58 airplanes — including engines to be provided by the General Electric Co. — would be about $2 billion.

About $1.4 billion of the cost will be for the air frame and the remainder for the engines.

McNamara directed the Air Force to proceed immediately with work on what he called the "revolutionary new transport."

Build In Georgia

Lockheed, a Los Angeles-based company, will build the giant aircraft at its Marietta, Ga., division. That plant, employing 20,000 persons, currently is building 169 C141 jet transports. Over the past 10 years it also has built more than 700 C130 Hercules prop-jet transports. They still are in production.

McNamara's long-awaited announcement, at a news conference, ended feverish speculation as to which of the three competing firms — Lockheed, Douglas or Boeing — would win the juiciest contracting plum in many a year.

Two weeks ago, in response to a question at a news conference, McNamara disclosed that General Electric had bested Pratt & Whitney division of United Aircraft Corp. in the competition to develop the plane's four 40,000-pound-thrust fan-jet engines.

If the airplane shapes up as well as its builder anticipates, the Air Force order might well be increased to 100 or even twice that number.

Commercial Possibilities

McNamara said he believes the plane also has significant commercial implications.

"It could carry international air cargoes at a much lower cost per mile than present commercial planes," he said.

The new plane will weigh almost 350 tons, twice as much as the C141, now the nation's largest military transport plane.

It will be able to carry loads of 250,000 pounds for 3,200 miles and loads of 100,000 pounds nonstop across the Pacific Ocean.

The plane will carry up to 700 persons. It will be more than 230 feet long, 63 feet high at the tail, and will have a 220 foot wing span.

ARCHBISHOP

The auxiliary bishop of Washington, Philip M. Hannan, has been named archbishop of New Orleans by Pope Paul VI. He succeeds Archbishop John P. Cody, recently transferred to Chicago. Bishop Hannan, 52, delivered the eulogy at the funeral of President John F. Kennedy in Washington Nov. 25, 1963. He is now in charge of the American bishops' press panel at the Vatican Ecumenical Council in Rome.

New State Department Is Open For Business

The new Department of Administrative Services officially began to function Thursday.

Preparations for the inauguration of new accounting and budget control procedures have been under way for the past month under Administrative Services Director Willard E. Townsend.

The state's 66 departments and agencies will begin using the new accounting system that is geared to electronic data processing equipment to be installed and operating by April 1.

A week ago, all department heads and fiscal officers were briefed on the new system which will be supervised by Townsend's department.

Few of the changes will be evident to the public except for the "new look" on state warrants, which will carry the signatures of State Treasurer Fred Sorensen and Townsend.

The auditor's office will continue with its post-audit function of state accounts and warrants, but under legislation enacted by the 1965 Legislature, the new department will have primary supervision of budgeting and financial accounting controls.

Key personnel in the department also include State Accountant John Luethje and Budget Officer William E. (Pat) Daugherty.

Revenue control for the state was placed under the tax commissioner's office by a companion bill, which also became effective Thursday.

Charges Rejected

New Orleans (UPI)—Federal Dist. Court Judge Frank Ellis rejected Negro charges that Orleans parish voter registrar A. P. Gallinghouse was deliberately stalling their registration drive.

NFO Lobbyist Says Tax Stand In Doubt

The state legislative representative of the National Farmers Organization (NFO) said Thursday it is questionable what position the NFO might take on the controversial income tax at its annual state convention Saturday in Grand Island.

Joseph Franson of Lincoln, NFO lobbyist, said a discussion of the income tax bill passed by the 1965 Legislature could be one of the highlights of the one-day convention. Nearly 500 members of the organization are expected to attend the session.

Oren Lee Staley, national NFO president, will be the featured speaker along with Lt. Gov. Phil Sorensen and State Agriculture Director Pearle Finigan.

"The NFO is right on the line," Franson said. "Since the rural tax burden is becoming unbearable, we support a broadened tax base, but we're not particularly pleased with this bill. The organization could go either way or refuse to take a stand."

The income tax issue appears headed for a referendum showdown. Petitions carrying some 85,000 signatures to place the question on the November, 1966, ballot were filed with the secretary of state Wednesday. Only 28,905 valid signatures are required to force a referendum vote.

Franson said he personally hopes the NFO will agree not to actively support the tax as a group should the issue go before the voters, but rather allow each member of the organization to decide.

Lockheed Wins Contract For Big Transport Plane

Washington (AP) — Lockheed Aircraft Corp. won the hotly contested Defense Department contract Thursday to develop and produce the nation's largest transport airplane, the C5A.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced the contract award and said the development cost and initial production order of 58 airplanes — including engines to be provided by the General Electric Co. — would be about $2 billion.

About $1.4 billion of the cost will be for the air frame and the remainder for the engines.

McNamara directed the Air Force to proceed immediately with work on what he called the "revolutionary new transport."

Build In Georgia

Lockheed, a Los Angeles-based company, will build the giant aircraft at its Marietta, Ga., division. That plant, employing 20,000 persons, currently is building 169 C141 jet transports. Over the past 10 years it also has built more than 700 C130 Hercules prop-jet transports. They still are in production.

McNamara's long-awaited announcement, at a news conference, ended feverish speculation as to which of the three competing firms — Lockheed, Douglas or Boeing — would win the juiciest contracting plum in many a year.

Two weeks ago, in response to a question at a news conference, McNamara disclosed that General Electric had bested Pratt & Whitney division of United Aircraft Corp. in the competition to develop the plane's four 40,000-pound-thrust fan-jet engines.

If the airplane shapes up as well as its builder anticipates, the Air Force order might well be increased to 100 or even twice that number.

Commercial Possibilities

McNamara said he believes the plane also has significant commercial implications.

"It could carry international air cargoes at a much lower cost per mile than present commercial planes," he said.

The new plane will weigh almost 350 tons, twice as much as the C141, now the nation's largest military transport plane.

It will be able to carry loads of 250,000 pounds for 3,200 miles and loads of 100,000 pounds nonstop across the Pacific Ocean.

The plane will carry up to 700 persons. It will be more than 230 feet long, 63 feet high at the tail, and will have a 220 foot wing span.

New State Department Is Open For Business

The new Department of Administrative Services officially began to function Thursday.

Preparations for the inauguration of new accounting and budget control procedures have been under way for the past month under Administrative Services Director Willard E. Townsend.

The state's 66 departments and agencies will begin using the new accounting system that is geared to electronic data processing equipment to be installed and operating by April 1.

A week ago, all department heads and fiscal officers were briefed on the new system which will be supervised by Townsend's department.

Few of the changes will be evident to the public except for the "new look" on state warrants, which will carry the signatures of State Treasurer Fred Sorensen and Townsend.

The auditor's office will continue with its post-audit function of state accounts and warrants, but under legislation enacted by the 1965 Legislature the new department will have primary supervision of budgeting and financial accounting controls.

Key personnel in the department also include State Accountant John Luethje and Budget Officer William E. (Pat) Daugherty.

Revenue control for the state was placed under the tax commissioner's office by a companion bill, which also became effective Thursday.

Charges Rejected

New Orleans (UPI)—Federal Dist. Court Judge Frank Ellis rejected Negro charges that Orleans parish voter registrar A. P. Gallinghouse was deliberately stalling their registration drive.

ARCHBISHOP

The auxiliary bishop of Washington, Philip M. Hannan, has been named archbishop of New Orleans by Pope Paul VI. He succeeds Archbishop John P. Cody, recently transferred to Chicago. Bishop Hannan, 52, delivered the eulogy at the funeral of President John F. Kennedy in Washington Nov. 25, 1963. He is now in charge of the American bishops' press panel at the Vatican Ecumenical Council in Rome.

NFO Lobbyist Says Tax Stand In Doubt

The state legislative representative of the National Farmers Organization (NFO) said Thursday it is questionable what position the NFO might take on the controversial income tax at its annual state convention Saturday in Grand Island.

Joseph Franson of Lincoln, NFO lobbyist, said a discussion of the income tax bill passed by the 1965 Legislature could be one of the highlights of the one-day convention. Nearly 500 members of the organization are expected to attend the session.

Oren Lee Staley, national NFO president, will be the featured speaker along with Lt. Gov. Phil Sorensen and State Agriculture Director Pearle Finigan.

"The NFO is right on the line," Franson said. "Since the rural tax burden is becoming unbearable, we support a broadened tax base, but we're not particularly pleased with this bill. The organization could go either way or refuse to take a stand."

The income tax issue appears headed for a referendum showdown. Petitions carrying some 85,000 signatures to place the question on the November, 1966, ballot were filed with the secretary of state Wednesday. Only 28,905 valid signatures are required to force a referendum vote.

Franson said he personally hopes the NFO will agree not to actively support the tax as a group should the issue go before the voters, but rather allow each member of the organization to decide.

Oswald Letter Is Auctioned For $3,000

New York (AP)—A letter written in Russia by presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald sold for $3,000 at auction Thursday night, almost twice the amount bid for some letters written by Mrs. John F. Kennedy when she was first lady.

David Kirschenbaum, operator of the Carnegie Book shop, was successful bidder on both the Oswald letter and the letters from Mrs. Kennedy to actor Basil Rathbone.

Other letters and mementoes of Oswald and letters written by Mrs. Kennedy and her late husband also were auctioned by Charles Hamilton in the Gotham Hotel.

'Bad Taste'

Just before the auction, the hotel management in a statement expressed disapproval of the letters of Mrs. Kennedy and Oswald. The hotel said it considered the auction in Hamilton's decision to auction "bad taste."

It had been reported that Mrs. Kennedy was unhappy about the letters sale, particularly those sent to Rathbone dealing with a poetic reading he had given at the White House.

A spokesman for Hamilton said he did not feel there was anything in poor taste in the auctioning of the Oswald or Mrs. Kennedy letters.

"They both are public figures and their letters are collectors' items," the spokesman said. "Mrs. Kennedy became a public figure the day she married Sen. Kennedy."

U.S. Return Efforts

The high priced Oswald letter describes to his mother the things that had embittered him against the United States and told of his efforts to return to America after having renounced his citizenship.

Kirschenbaum, who described himself as a dealer in rare manuscripts, refused to be pulled into any discussion with newsmen on his feelings about the propriety of the Kennedy and Oswald letter selling.

"I'm a dealer, this is my business," he said.

In Fort Worth, Tex., Oswald's mother said she hoped to get enough money from the auction to finance a trip to Russia.

Mrs. Marguerite Oswald said she wants to go to Russia to gather information which she believes will prove her son's innocence. She said part of the story of her son's stay in that country "is missing and the Warren Commission report didn't tell all."

Mrs. Oswald said she "cried many tears" before deciding to sell the items. She said she hoped the letters and birth certificate would bring between $3,000 and $10,000.

Pair Charged With Burglary; Loot Recovered

Two 19-year-olds from Offutt Air Force Base, Omaha, were charged with burglary in Lancaster County Court Thursday in connection with the Sept. 19 break-in at Charlie's Texaco, 300 West O.

They were Anthony F. Cook and Robert E. Miller. Cook waived preliminary hearing Thursday and was bound over to District court under $3,000 bond.

The Safety Patrol said Cook admitted being involved in 21 or 22 burglaries in Eastern Nebraska and Iowa since Sept. 1.

An estimated $2,000 in booty was recovered as a result of the investigation, the Safety Patrol said.

Charges are pending against a third Offutt AFB youth allegedly involved in some of the break-ins, the Safety Patrol added.

Dr. Lee Lemon Is Pulitzer Prize Nominee For '65

Another Nebraskan — Dr. Lee Lemon of the University of Nebraska—has been nominated for a Pulitzer Prize this year.

Lemon, an associate professor of English, was placed in contention by the Oxford Publishing Co. for his book, "The Partial Critics."

Urologists Name Dr. Munger As President-Elect

Other officers named in Omaha included: Dr. A. Keller Doss of Fort Worth, Tex., president; Dr. Charles H. Nicholai of St. Louis, treasurer; Dr. LeRoy Plank of Albuquerque, N.M., secretary.

The group will hold its meeting next year at Mexico City.

Permit Sought To Expand Club

Boyd R. Waddle has applied to the city for a special permit to expand the East Hills Supper Club.

According to the application, Waddle proposes to add a new piano lounge and enlarge kitchen facilities at the club, located on 70th between A and South.

Also proposed is additional parking space for 25 cars and paving the existing parking lot, which accommodates 180 cars.

The application will be referred to the City-County Planning Commission for its recommendation.

Lagging Charged

Washington (UPI)—Republican congressional leaders claim the administration's war on poverty is lagging, "chaotic" in administration and should have a full-time director.

Oswald Letter Is Auctioned For $3,000

New York (AP)—A letter written in Russia by presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald sold for $3,000 at auction Thursday night, almost twice the amount bid for some letters written by Mrs. John F. Kennedy when she was first lady.

David Kirschenbaum, operator of the Carnegie Book shop, was successful bidder on both the Oswald letter and the letters from Mrs. Kennedy to actor Basil Rathbone.

Kirschenbaum paid $1,600 for the notes Mrs. Kennedy wrote Rathbone not long before her husband was killed.

Other letters and mementoes of Oswald and letters written by Mrs. Kennedy and her late husband also were auctioned by Charles Hamilton in the Gotham Hotel.

'Bad Taste'

Just before the auction, the hotel management in a statement expressed disapproval of the letters of Mrs. Kennedy and Oswald. The hotel said it considered the auction in Hamilton's decision to auction "bad taste."

It had been reported that Mrs. Kennedy was unhappy about the letters sale, particularly those sent to Rathbone dealing with a poetic reading he had given at the White House.

A spokesman for Hamilton said he did not feel there was anything in poor taste in the auctioning of the Oswald or Mrs. Kennedy letters.

"They both are public figures and their letters are collectors' items," the spokesman said. "Mrs. Kennedy became a public figure the day she married Sen. Kennedy."

U.S. Return Efforts

The high priced Oswald letter describes to his mother the things that had embittered him against the United States and told of his efforts to return to America after having renounced his citizenship.

Kirschenbaum, who described himself as a dealer in rare manuscripts, refused to be pulled into any discussion with newsmen on his feelings about the propriety of the Kennedy and Oswald letter selling.

"I'm a dealer, this is my business," he said.

In Fort Worth, Tex., Oswald's mother said she hoped to get enough money from the auction to finance a trip to Russia.

Mrs. Marguerite Oswald said she wants to go to Russia to gather information which she believes will prove her son's innocence. She said part of the story of her son's stay in that country "is missing and the Warren Commission report didn't tell all."

Mrs. Oswald said she "cried many tears" before deciding to sell the items. She said she hoped the letters and birth certificate would bring between $3,000 and $10,000.

Pair Charged With Burglary; Loot Recovered

Two 19-year-olds from Offutt Air Force Base, Omaha, were charged with burglary in Lancaster County Court Thursday in connection with the Sept. 19 break-in at Charlie's Texaco, 300 West O.

They were Anthony F. Cook and Robert E. Miller. Cook waived preliminary hearing Thursday and was bound over to District court under $3,000 bond.

The Safety Patrol said Cook admitted being involved in 21 or 22 burglaries in Eastern Nebraska and Iowa since Sept. 1.

An estimated $2,000 in booty was recovered as a result of the investigation, the Safety Patrol said.

Charges are pending against a third Offutt AFB youth allegedly involved in some of the break-ins, the Safety Patrol added.

Another Nebraskan — Dr. Lee Lemon of the University of Nebraska—has been nominated for a Pulitzer Prize this year.

Lemon, an associate professor of English, was placed in contention by the Oxford Publishing Co. for his book, "The Partial Critics."

The book is a survey of modern literary theory applied to poetry, Lemon said.

The application will be referred to the City-County Planning Commission for its recommendation.

Prices Dip Again In Stock Mart

New York (AP)—The stock market Thursday took its third loss in a row as some recent gainers wilted under profit taking and Wall Street showed further concern about the chance of stiffening credit for stock purchases.

Volume at 8.68 million shares compared with 10.61 million Wednesday.

The market advanced in the morning, with the emphasis showing signs of shifting a little from recent speculative favorites to steels, motors and other cyclical issues. But the session ended in a scramble when three big aerospace issues were swamped with orders due to a prediction by a news service that Defense Secretary Robert McNamara would announce the award of the $2-billion contract for the huge C5A military transport to Lockheed.

The news spurred Lockheeed, brought waves of selling to Boeing and Douglas Aircraft, its rivals for the contract, and resulted in a halt in trading in all three stocks. After the market close, McNamara made the announcement.

The jolt to Boeing and Douglas had an unsettling effect on other aerospace issues, electronics and various issues. The list showed a slight gain on average a half-hour before the close. Then came the report on Lockheed.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had been up as much as 3.29 at noon, ended with a net loss of 1.81 at 930.58.

As the final bell sounded, Boeing reopeneed on blocks of 10,500 and 3,700 shares, down 3⅝ at 100; and Douglas Aircraft reopened on 25,000 shares, down 6½ at 54½.

Trading was not resumed in Lockheed on the New York Stock Exchange and its final quote was 59⅜, up 2. It reopened trading later on the Pacific Coast Stock Exchang and climbed further.

Of 1,388 issues traded, 627 fell and 505 rose. New highs for the year totaled 39 and new lows 21.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell .5 to 343.9 with industrials down 1.8, rails up .1 and utilities up .4.

Thiokol, one of the lower-priced issues which began to "go" this week, ended as most active stock, off ¼ at 20 on huge volume of 590,000 shares.

Conflicting opinions on whether the Federal Reserve Board would raise margin requirements for stock purchases from the present 70% added further to uncertainty in Wall Street.

Margin requirements set the "down payment" needed for stock purchases.

The 15 most-active stocks showed 8 losers to 7 gainers.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 2.69 million shares compared with 3.17 million Wednesday.

Grains Steady In Dull Trading

Chicago (AP) — Prices in the grain futures market generally were little changed Thursday in dull trading almost devoid of any new influences.

Soybeans finished about where they started although they showed a brief period of firmness early. Wehat and oats were mostly easier, corn and rye slightly higher.

At the close, wheat was ¾ cent a bushel lower to ⅝ higher, December $1.61; corn ⅛-¼ higher, december $1.16⅜-½; oats unchanged to ¼ lower, December 66¾ cents; rye ½ cent higher on all deliveries, December $1.24; soybeans ⅛ higher to ⅛ lower, November $2.47¾-⅞.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Causes, Effects Scrutinized Persisting Business Boom

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

What makes the current business boom persist longer than the past average pattern?

Rukeyser

This query is all the more pertinent in light of the forecast by economists attending a meeting of the National Industrial Conference Board in New York that the high level would continue through 1966.

As a matter of fact, one estimate put next year's gross national product at a level "perhaps 5½% above 1965, with the second half of the year much higher than the first." Secretary of Commerce Connor predicted that 1966 prospects were favorable, yet he made a pitch to businessmen to help improve the U.S. balance of payments situation by expanding expert sales. He pointed to a "perilous cut" in this country's favorable balance of visible trade in the first seven months when it increased only 1½% over the corresponding period in 1964, while imports climbed 12%.

It was proper for the commerce secretary to proceed in the tradition of Napoleon who said: "Circumstances! I make circumstances."

Likewise through the years in my lectures around the country I have consistently emphasized the truism that our future is to a measurable degree in our own hands and it depends on the decisions we make and the policies we pursue.

Prosperity

Prosperity is the norm in a growing economic society, and recessions are the results of maladjustments accumulated. Parenthetically, it should be recognized that corrective recessions are not an unmitigated evil, unpleasant as they may be for the casualties. Fore even in dynamic America the country occasionally takes a step backwards before taking two steps forward. If we don't like recessions, we should be scientific-minded and attempt to remove the causes of recessions, such as monetary high jinks, and excessive governmental intervention in the market process.

As to why the good times are persisting, this question is complex.

There are long term beneficial effects in this computer and scientific age of new mechanical aids to the human muscle of the worker. Rising productivity per man-hour is the basic contributor of social gains in living standards.

On top of this, it would appear that President Lyndon B. Johnson has injected a new ingredient. Even since the start of the New Deal regimen in 1933, there was an offset to governmental pump priming in the anti-business bias of politicians. Rightly or wrongly, business felt that it was unpopular. Slurs on profits by politicians and tax burdens tended to undo the lifting effect of inflationary governmental spending and other stimulants from the political economic planners.

Concensus

With his concentration on what he calls a concensus, LBJ has gone out of his way to extend the olive branch to the institutions of business and finance. His propensity for "arm twisting" has given him bipartisan support in the business and financial world. The tax reductions helped the era of good feeling.

It is beside the point whether in their judgments business executives have been statesmanlike. Whatever the causes of continuing prosperity, corporate executives like the favorable current trend in corporate earnings.

Apart from this short term influence, there has been a long term drift to what in Franco Spain is called Falangism. This is a system which retains all the outward symbols of free enterprise, but under which the central government retains the basic decision-making power.

This trend in varying degrees has prevailed in other countries in the free world. Top government is suspicious of the free market and fearful of the power of labor unions and big business. Accordingly, there has been a new fashion of setting up "guidelines."

In recent months, doubts were raised as to the freedom of decision of steelmakers as to prices. Political spokesmen indicated that upward revisions would not be frowned upon if they were selective rather than general. But the assumption of a power over that of competition in a free market by an intervening government represented a departure from the traditional system.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self-addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

Educational Compact Gets Leaders' OK

Kansas City (AP)—Political and educational leaders from every state voted overwhelmingly Thursday night to create a "compact for education," a partnership of states to solve nationwide educational problems.

A draft of the compact was hammered out but it will not become effective until the party states act upon it.

The compact will establish an educational commission of states, made up of seven representatives of each of the 50 states and four U.S. territories. The commission will be charged with making studies, collecting data, and making recommendations to its member states and to the federal government.

It will have no regulatory powers.

The committee is "empowered to accept and expand funds, to employ a director and other staff members, to select a headquarters site, to present and explain the compact to the various governors and state legislative bodies, and generally to assume the task of creating such a compact."

Former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, chairman of the conference, told the meeting 15 governors have agreed in writing to adhere to the provisions of the compact, 29 more governors or their representatives have said they intend to adhere and several others have said they probably will.

Sanford said he thought the compact could be a reality by Christmas. He has pledges of support from several foundations to finance early operations.

Jaycees Report 12 to 1 Support For Viet Policy

Washington (AP) — President Johnson was told Thursday by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of the United States that Jaycees back his policies in Viet Nam by a 12 to 1 margin.

Asked how Johnson reacted, Skidmore told newsmen, "He was overwhelmed."

Skidmore told reporters he could not give detailed figures on the poll result because they were still to be tabulated.

Prices Dip Again In Stock Mart

New York (AP)—The stock market Thursday took its third loss in a row as some recent gainers wilted under profit taking and Wall Street showed further concern about the chance of stiffening credit for stock purchases.

Volume at 8.68 million shares compared with 10.61 million Wednesday.

The market advanced in the morning, with the emphasis showing signs of shifting a little from recent speculative favorites to steels, motors and other cyclical issues. But the session ended in a scramble when three big aerospace issues were swamped with orders due to a prediction by a news service that Defense Secretary Robert McNamara would announce the award of the $2-billion contract for the huge C5A military transport to Lockheed.

The news spurred Lockheeed, brought waves of selling to Boeing and Douglas Aircraft, its rivals for the contract, and resulted in a halt in trading in all three stocks. After the market close, McNamara made the announcement.

The jolt to Boeing and Douglas had an unsettling effect on other aerospace issues, electronics and various issues. The list showed a slight gain on average a half-hour before the close. Then came the report on Lockheed.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had been up as much as 3.29 at noon, ended with a net loss of 1.81 at 930.58.

As the final bell sounded, Boeing reopeneed on blocks of 10,500 and 3,700 shares, down 3⅜ at 100; and Douglas Aircraft reopened on 25,000 shares, down 6½ at 54½.

Trading was not resumed in Lockheed on the New York Stock Exchange and its final quote was 59⅜, up 2. It reopened trading later on the Pacific Coast Stock Exchang and climbed further.

Of 1,388 issues traded, 627 fell and 505 rose. New highs for the year totaled 39 and new lows 21.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell .5 to 343.9 with industrials down 1.8, rails up .1 and utilities up .4.

Thiokol, one of the lower-priced issues which began to "go" this week, ended as most active stock, off ¼ at 20 on huge volume of 590,000 shares.

Conflicting opinions on whether the Federal Reserve Board would raise margin requirements for stock purchases from the present 70% added further to uncertainty in Wall Street.

Margin requirements set the "down payment" needed for stock purchases.

The 15 most-active stocks showed 8 losers to 7 gainers.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 2.69 million shares compared with 3.17 million Wednesday.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Causes, Effects Scrutinized Persisting Business Boom

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

What makes the current business boom persist longer than the past average pattern?

Rukeyser

This query is all the more pertinent in light of the forecast by economists attending a meeting of the National Industrial Conference Board in New York that the high level would continue through 1966.

As a matter of fact, one estimate put next year's gross national product at a level "perhaps 5½% above 1965, with the second half of the year much higher than the first." Secretary of Commerce Connor predicted that 1966 prospects were favorable, yet he made a pitch to businessmen to help improve the U.S. balance of payments situation by expanding expert sales. He pointed to a "perilous cut" in this country's favorable balance of visible trade in the first seven months when it increased only 1½% over the corresponding period in 1964, while imports climbed 12%.

It was proper for the commerce secretary to proceed in the tradition of Napoleon who said: "Circumstances! I make circumstances."

Likewise through the years in my lectures around the country I have consistently emphasized the truism that our future is to a measurable degree in our own hands and it depends on the decisions we make and the policies we pursue.

Prosperity

Prosperity is the norm in a growing economic society, and recessions are the results of maladjustments accumulated. Parenthetically, it should be recognized that corrective recessions are not an unmitigated evil, unpleasant as they may be for the casualties. Fore even in dynamic America the country occasionally takes a step backwards before taking two steps forward. If we don't like recessions, we should be scientific-minded and attempt to remove the causes of recessions, such as monetary high jinks, and excessive governmental intervention in the market process.

As to why the good times are persisting, this question is complex.

There are long term beneficial effects in this computer and scientific age of new mechanical aids to the human muscle of the worker. Rising productivity per man-hour is the basic contributor of social gains in living standards.

On top of this, it would appear that President Lyndon B. Johnson has injected a new ingredient. Even since the start of the New Deal regimen in 1933, there was an offset to governmental pump priming in the anti-business bias of politicians. Rightly or wrongly, business felt that it was unpopular. Slurs on profits by politicians and tax burdens tended to undo the lifting effect of inflationary governmental spending and other stimulants from the political economic planners.

Concensus

With his concentration on what he calls a concensus, LBJ has gone out of his way to extend the olive branch to the institutions of business and finance. His propensity for "arm twisting" has given him bipartisan support in the business and financial world. The tax reductions helped the era of good feeling.

It is beside the point whether in their judgments business executives have been statesmanlike. Whatever the causes of continuing prosperity, corporate executives like the favorable current trend in corporate earnings.

Apart from this short term influence, there has been a long term drift to what in Franco Spain is called Falangism. This is a system which retains all the outward symbols of free enterprise, but under which the central government retains the basic decision-making power.

This trend in varying degrees has prevailed in other countries in the free world.

Top government is suspicious of the free market and fearful of the power of labor unions and big business. Accordingly, there has been a new fashion of setting up "guidelines."

In recent months, doubts were raised as to the freedom of decision of steelmakers as to prices. Political spokesmen indicated that upward revisions would not be frowned upon if they were selective rather than general. But the assumption of a power over that of competition in a free market by an intervening government represented a departure from the traditional system.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self-addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general inetrest will be answered in the column.)

Educational Compact Gets Leaders' OK

Kansas City (AP)—Political and educational leaders from every state voted overwhelmingly Thursday night to create a "compact for education," a partnership of states to solve nationwide educational problems.

A draft of the compact was hammered out but it will not become effective until the party states act upon it.

The compact will establish an educational commission of states, made up of seven representatives of each of the 50 states and four U.S. territories. The commission will be charged with making studies, collecting data, and making recommendations to its member states and to the federal government.

It will have no regulatory powers.

The committee is "empowered to accept and expand funds, to employ a director and other staff members, to select a headquarters site, to present and explain the compact to the various governors and state legislative bodies, and generally to assume the task of creating such a compact."

Former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, chairman of the conference, told the meeting 15 governors have agreed in writing to adhere to the provisions of the compact, 29 more governors or their representatives have said they intend to adhere and several others have said they probably will.

Sanford said he thought the compact could be a reality by Christmas. He has pledges of support from several foundations to finance early operations.

Jaycees Report 12 to 1 Support For Viet Policy

Washington (AP) — President Johnson was told Thursday by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of the United States that Jaycees back his policies in Viet Nam by a 12 to 1 margin.

James A. Skidmore Jr. of Brick Town, N.J., president of the organization, called on Johnson to report the preliminary results of a nationwide poll of Jaycees turned up strong support for the administration course.

Skidmore told reporters he could not give detailed figures on the poll result because they were still to be tabulated.

Taal Volcano Treated Like Live Bomb

SEARCHERS CAREFULLY PROBE AREA

FAMILY RETURNS TO DESOLATION . . . of volcano-hit village.

Manila (AP) — Volcano experts and rescue workers, still trying to determine the death toll of the eruption Tuesday, probed around the growling Taal volcano Thursday as though it were a great. live bomb.

Ominous rumbling balked any systematic search through the volcanic ash that covers nearly half the 12-mile-square island, situated in Lake Taal 40 miles south of Manila.

It originally was feared that up to 2,000 persons might be buried, but the figure is now estimated to be closer to 500.

The precise toll, as in the case of Taal's last previous eruption in 1911, may never be known. Estimates of losses in the disaster 54 years ago still range from 1,300 to 3,000.

No Life Found

A few constabulary patrols made their way into parts of the blackened area Thursday and found no life. They reported that rain and sunshine since the eruption have caused the ash and lava to harden. In most areas the layer is four feet deep.

Col. Segundo Gazmin, who heads the military team in charge of the area, said his main concern is for 15,000 persons in evacuation camps. He has posted guards to stop looting and has patrols out to prevent anyone from returning immediately to the island.

Gazmin said government volcano experts have told him it was unlikely the volcano would stage another major eruption, but they couldn't be sure.

James G. Moore, a geologist with the U.S. Geological Survey and now on temporary duty in Japan, said he would leave Tokyo Saturday for the Philippines to study the dangers.

Relief Supplies

Relief supplies, coming from as far away as Australia and the United States, are adequate for the moment, Gazmin said.

The Red Cross is listing the people in the camps and attempting to determine the exact number of missing. This may take another week, Gazmin said, and even then would not be complete.

Some whole families were wiped out and may never be reported missing, he added.

Two frogmen teams from the Philippine navy are searching the waters of Lake Taal for bodies.

The volcanic island was a scene of desolation alongside tropical greenery. The whole south side is buried in ash and mud piled to rooftops in places. The north side is green and the houses relatively untouched — though not a human being is to be seen.

New Crater

Thursday morning the new crater suddenly burst into a series of massive geysers, some going 2,000 feet in the air. Thursday night it subsided to steaming belches.

Along the shore are many fishing boats, half buried in the mud. The colonel thinks that in these areas the blast came too suddenly for the people to escape.

"We still have no idea how many people drowned." Gazmin said. "I know of three boats that capsized — that would make about 60 people altogether."

The hospital at Batangas, capital of the province, had eight volcano patients Thursday, but the doctors said many, many more had been treated for burns.

Child Accident Prevention Week Is Announced

Gov. Frank Morrison Thursday proclaimed the week of Oct. 4 through 11 as Child Accident Prevention Week in Nebraska.

Gov. Morrison said he made the proclamation "in the interest of the safety and welfare of the children of the state of Nebraska, while traveling or walking on our streets and highways, in the schools, on the playgrounds and in their homes, and as a memorial to those thousands of boys and girls who have met with violent deaths" in accidents.

He urged every Nebraskan to cooperate with the Nebraska division of the Travelers Protective Association of America in its annual National Child Accident Prevention Week program.

Werve Uurged To Enter Race For Governor

Democratic National Committeemen Marvin Werve has been urged to seek the party's gubernatorial nomination next year.

But Werve, of Omaha, said he will have no statement on his possible candidacy until after Gov. Frank Morrison decides what to do.

Morrison is considered a possible challenger to Republican Carl T. Curtis for a U.S. Senate seat. He may also seek re-election as governor, or accept an appointment to a federal judgeship.

Discussion 'Illegal'

Tokyo (AP)—Peking's New Chain News Agency reported the U.N. Assembly decision to take up the question of Tibet again and contended it was illegal and an interference with internal Chinese affairs. Red China invaded Tibet in 1950 and in 1959 the Dalai Lama, the Tibetan god-king fled to India after an anti-Peking uprising failed.

Taal Volcano Treated Like Live Bomb

SEARCHERS CAREFULLY PROBE AREA

FAMILY RETURNS TO DESOLATION . . . of volcano-hit village.

Manila (AP) — Volcano experts and rescue workers, still trying to determine the death toll of the eruption Tuesday, probed around the growling Taal volcano Thursday as though it were a great, live bomb.

Ominous rumbling balked any systematic search through the volcanic ash that covers nearly half the 12-mile-square island, situated in Lake Taal 40 miles south of Manila.

It originally was feared that up to 2,000 persons might be buried, but the figure is now estimated to be closer to 500.

The precise toll, as in the case of Taal's last previous eruption in 1911, may never be known. Estimates of losses in the disaster 54 years ago still range from 1,300 to 3,000.

No Life Found

A few constabulary patrols made their way into parts of the blackened area Thursday and found no life. They reported that rain and sunshine since the eruption have caused the ash and lava to harden. In most areas the layer is four feet deep.

Col. Segundo Gazmin, who heads the military team in charge of the area, said his main concern is for 15,000 persons in evacuation camps. He has posted guards to stop looting and has patrols out to prevent anyone from returning immediately to the island.

Gazmin said government volcano experts have told him it was unlikely the volcano would stage another major eruption, but they couldn't be sure.

James G. Moore, a geologist with the U.S. Geological Survey and now on temporary duty in Japan, said he would leave Tokyo Saturday for the Philippines to study the dangers.

Relief Supplies

Relief supplies, coming from as far away as Australia and the United States, are adequate for the moment, Gazmin said.

The Red Cross is listing the people in the camps and attempting to determine the exact number of missing. This may take another week, Gazmin said, and even then would not be complete.

Some whole families were wiped out and may never be reported missing, he added.

Two frogmen teams from the Philippine navy are searching the waters of Lake Taal for bodies.

The volcanic island was a scene of desolation alongside tropical greenery. The whole south side is buried in ash and mud piled to rooftops in places. The north side is green and the houses relatively untouched — though not a human being is to be seen.

New Crater

Thursday morning the new crater suddenly burst into a series of massive geysers, some going 2,000 feet in the air. Thursday night it subsided to steaming belches.

Along the shore are many fishing boats, half buried in the mud. The colonel thinks that in these areas the blast came too suddenly for the people to escape.

"We still have no idea how many people drowned," Gazmin said. "I know of three boats that capsized — that would make about 60 people altogether."

The hospital at Batangas, capital of the province, had eight volcano patients Thursday, but the doctors said many, many more had been treated for burns.

Werve Uurged To Enter Race For Governor

Democratic National Committeemen Marvin Werve has been urged to seek the party's gubernatorial nomination next year.

But Werve, of Omaha, said he will have no statement on his possible candidacy until after Gov. Frank Morrison decides what to do.

Morrison is considered a possible challenger to Republican Carl T. Curtis for a U.S. Senate seat. He may also seek re-election as governor, or accept an appointment to a federal judgeship.

Discussion 'Illegal'

Tokyo (AP)—Peking's New Chain News Agency reported the U.N. Assembly decision to take up the question of Tibet again and contended it was illegal and an interference with internal Chinese affairs. Red China invaded Tibet in 1950 and in 1959 the Dalai Lama, the Tibetan god-king fled to India after an anti-Peking uprising failed.

U.S. Suspends Economic Aid In So. Viet Province

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—The United States has suspended economic aid programs in the South Vietnamese province of Binh Tuy on charges of corruption by provincial officials and intimidation of Americans working there, reliable sources report.

The two American civilian aid men in Binh Tuy, John McGrath and Ed Hardy, were pulled out of the province a week ago, with their Vietnamese assistants because of fears for their safety, these sources said. All now are working on the aid program in other provinces.

The American aid pair had been digging for three months into alleged misuse of aid funds and had come up with a formidable list of charges. the informants added. The 45-million-piaster (about $650,000) economic aid program to the province was suspended the same day the Americans left, the sources said, adding, however that a large portion of the program's money had already been spent.

Pressed For Action

U.S. authorities in Saigon are reported to have pressed the government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky to take some action. Reported price for renewal or aid to Binh Tuy, a rice-rich coastal province about 70 miles northeast of Saigon, is removal of the province chief, a Lt. Col. Chi. and some of his assistants.

Premier Ky has taken no action so far.

Cessation of aid to the province and removal of the aid team would be the severest action the United States has taken in this field since the final days of the Ngo Dinh Diem regime.

At that time, financial aid was stopped to Diem's special forces troops after a raid on Saigon's Buddhist pagoda.

Military assistance to Binh Tuy province is being continued. even though there were recommendations that it. too, be discontinued to put further pressure on the Saigon government.

The informants gave this account:

No Improvement

The decision to stop aid to Binh Tuy was made after fruitless attempts to improve the aid situation there. One of the main problems working against a solution is the involved relationship province officials at Binh Tuy have with some senior officials in the Saigon government.

The province chief was fired earlier this year from a job as chief of Phu Bon province on grounds of incompetence. He briefly joined the staff of the II Corps commander, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Huu Co., who appointed him province chief in Binh Tuy three months ago. Now Gen. Co is war minister in Ky's cabinet.

The brother-in-law of Province Chief Chi is the commander of the 10th Vietnamese Division based at Xuan Loc near Binh Tuy.

Step On Toes

So Ky may have to step on the toes of some of his top people if he is to satisfy the wishes of U.S. authorities.

Informants trace the Binh Tuy aid problems back to the time when the new province chief took over three months ago. Their account goes on:

The U.S. aid men at Ham Tan, the Binh Tuy capital, began reporting back to their Saigon headquarters that the new provincial officials were insisting economic aid be handled only by the Vietnamese.

In late August, auditors from the U.S. aid mission headquarters at Saigon began looking into the books in Binh Tuy province and were reported not very happy with the results.

Pentagon Sets Strong Rules For Sellers

Washington (AP) — The Pentagon has ordered into effect strong rules designed to protect servicemen from being gouged on purchases and credit terms.

A directive issued declares that the Defense Department rejects the "let the buyer beware" doctrine so far as servicemen are concerned and "insists on observance of the doctrine 'let the seller make full disclosure'" by persons doing business with the serviceman and his family.

The order, effective in 30 days, was signed by Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus Vance.

It is aimed at guarding servicemen from extortionate credit terms, and other abuses.

It applies to any firms which want to solicit and sell goods, services or commodities at defense installations, including military housing areas.

It also applies to any person or firm trying to get help from the Defense Department to collect on servicemen's debts.

Secret Service Able To Arrest Without Warrant

The President's action was announced by the White House Thursday.

The new law, prompted by studies that followed the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, extends to Secret Service agents the arrest powers already granted federal marshals and FBI agents.

Premier Ky has taken no action so far.

Cessation of aid to the province and removal of the aid team would be the severest action the United States has taken in this field since the final days of the Ngo Dinh Diem regime.

At that time, financial aid was stopped to Diem's special forces troops after a raid on Saigon's Buddhist pagoda.

Military assistance to Binh Tuy province is being continued, even though there were recommendations that it, too, be discontinued to put further pressure on the Saigon government.

The informants gave this account:

No Improvement

The decision to stop aid to Binh Tuy was made after fruitless attempts to improve the aid situation there. One of the main problems working against a solution is the involved relationship province officials at Binh Tuy have with some senior officials in the Saigon government.

The province chief was fired earlier this year from a job as chief of Phu Bon province on grounds of incompetence. He briefly joined the staff of the II Corps commander, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Huu Co., who appointed him province chief in Binh Tuy three months ago. Now Gen. Co is war minister in Ky's cabinet.

The brother-in-law of Province Chief Chi is the commander of the 10th Vietnamese Division based at Xuan Loc near Binh Tuy.

Step On Toes

So Ky may have to step on the toes of some of his top people if he is to satisfy the wishes of U.S. authorities.

Informants trace the Binh Tuy aid problems back to the time when the new province chief took over three months ago. Their account goes on:

The U.S. aid men at Ham Tan, the Binh Tuy capital, began reporting back to their Saigon headquarters that the new provincial officials were insisting economic aid be handled only by the Vietnamese.

In late August, auditors from the U.S. aid mission headquarters at Saigon began looking into the books in Binh Tuy province and were reported not very happy with the results.

Pentagon Sets Strong Rules For Sellers

Washington (AP) — The Pentagon has ordered into effect strong rules designed to protect servicemen from being gouged on purchases and credit terms.

A directive issued declares that the Defense Department rejects the "let the buyer beware" doctrine so far as servicemen are concerned and "insists on observance of the doctrine 'let the seller make full disclosure'" by persons doing business with the serviceman and his family.

The order, effective in 30 days, was signed by Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus Vance.

It is aimed at guarding servicemen from extortionate credit terms, and other abuses.

It applies to any firms which want to solicit and sell goods, services or commodities at defense installations, including military housing areas.

It also applies to any person or firm trying to get help from the Defense Department to collect on servicemen's debts.

Secret Service Able To Arrest Without Warrant

Washington (AP) — President Johnson has signed a bill authorizing Secret Service agents to make arrests without warrant for offenses committed in their presence.

The President's action was announced by the White House Thursday.

The new law, prompted by studies that followed the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, extends to Secret Service agents the arrest powers already granted federal marshals and FBI agents.
